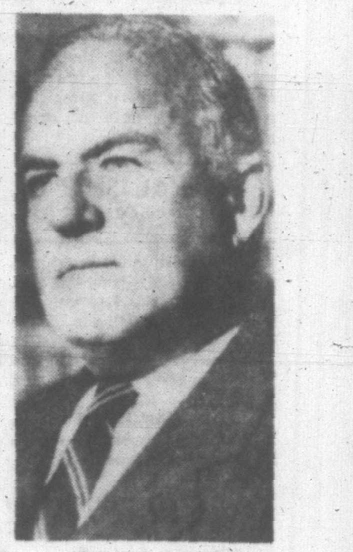
Space Patrol Proposed To Check Nuclear Tests

Satellite Plan Under Study

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States today asked the Soviet Union to join in launching of a space patrol of satellites to prevent secret nuclear testing high above the earth or behind the moon.



ARTHUR DEAN
. . . presents offer

The program would be part of a treaty banning atomic and hydrogen weapon tests. It would involve launching highly instrumented satellites and building up ground control systems.

U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean outlined the proposal to the three-power nuclear conference. He was supported by British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore.

Russian scientists have agreed with Western experts that it would be possible thus to police outer space. But the Soviet delegation has held back from committing itself.

SNEAKS POSSIBLE

Dean said there are scientific indications that it would be possible to conduct sneak nuclear weapon tests behind the sun or the moon.

One problem which has stumped the scientists thus far centres on how to determine the difference between a nuclear blast conducted in outer space and some cosmic storm which produces a similar kind of reading on detection instruments.

A false alarm would be dangerous once a test suspension was reached.

Dean said the satellites to check on nuclear blasts could be orbited around the earth at altitudes of 300 to 60,000 miles. Full coverage of outer space could be obtained by putting four satellites in orbit around the sun.

ABOUT 20

The over-all plan would include perhaps 10 satellites in a "near-earth system" — so called because they would orbit only at altitudes of 300 to 500 miles; five or six satellites in a "far earth" system about 37,000 miles above the earth, and four solar satellites travelling in the earth's orbit around the sun.

These space patrolling satellites would be equipped with apparatus which would detect amounts of gamma and X-rays following a nuclear explosion in space.

After a further meeting, at which the United States and Britain plan to summarize their newest concessions, the conferees take a four-day Easter recess.

The Western powers hope that when they return to the conference table next week, the Soviets will have some comment to make. The Russians have been silent throughout the nine days since the Western concessions first were described.

THE QUEEN IN NEW GOWN

No tinsel movie queen in figure-hugging, sequin evening gown and white stole is Queen Elizabeth, who made show-stopping entrance Tuesday night as she was greeted by sari-clad Madame V. L. Pandit at Indian High Commissioner's party in London. The Queen, with her new look—a far cry from her once tweedy appearance—was guest of honor.

S.A. 'Treason Trial' Ends in Mass Acquittal

PRETORIA (AP)—A three-judge tribunal today acquitted 28 persons charged with plotting violent overthrow of the South African government to establish a Communist regime.

The unanimous verdict brought to an end the longest and costliest trial in the country's history, lasting nearly four years and costing many thousands of pounds. It was a stunning defeat for Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white supremacy government.

The widely heralded "treason trial" resulted from the arrest of 156 persons of all races in country-wide dawn raids December, 1956. A world-wide campaign raised defence funds.

Ninety-two persons were indicted but the government dropped the charges against 64 soon after the trial began.

The defendants claimed they were only seeking an end to the Nationalist government's policy of apartheid — white supremacy and strict racial segregation.

BURST INTO SONG

A crowd in the jammed courtroom burst into the African freedom song, God Bless Africa, when the acquittals were announced. Negro, white and Indian women were among those rushing to congratulate the defendants.

Among the chief targets of the trial were leaders of the African National Congress, outlawed after the race riots that followed the police massacre at Sharpville last March.

The court found there was "no evidence" of Communistic infiltration into the congress "nor was it proved the congress had become a Communist organization."

The judges said the congress members and the others accused were working to change "the present form of state" but the government failed to show they wanted a Communist state.

The verdict also said there was no proof the congress "intended to achieve this new state by violent means." The judges conceded, however, that the congress action program "contemplated the use of illegal methods and that its application in fact resulted in illegal action during the defiance campaign."

Some of the freed defendants announced immediately they will continue to work for the freedom of South Africa and all humanity."

'Disturbed' Iraq Slaps on Curfew

CAIRO (UPI)—Cairo newspapers today reported "violent disturbances" in Iraq and a "serious shakeup" in the Jordanian high command.

They said Iraqi military governor Majjen Ahmed Saleh El Abdi has imposed a nightly curfew beginning at 4 p.m. local time with orders to shoot on sight any curfew breakers.

They quoted an alleged order by Abdi as saying the measures were taken to foil "agitation for violence and disturbances in the country."

They said Iraqi Premier Abdel Kassem rushed back to Baghdad from Basra where he had been for three days in his first visit outside the capital since the Iraq revolution.

. . . "what's wrong?"

U.K. Probes Spy Weakness

LONDON (UPI)—The government today ordered a sweeping investigation to "find out what's wrong" with Britain's secret services and their information exchange with American spy-catching agencies.

Home Secretary Richard A. Butler, heading the government in Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's absence, announced the investigation in the House of Commons.

ON LAOS

Russia Consults Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indian diplomatic sources said today the Soviet Union is consulting Communist China on the question of a cease-fire in Laos.

These sources indicated the prospects are about even for a satisfactory political settlement to be reached between the West and the Communist bloc over the neutralization of Laos.

Allied diplomats who attended briefings at the state department reported that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko promised President Kennedy on Monday he would relay the results of his talks promptly to Moscow and expected an answer within a few days.

U.S. officials were said to consider the "few days" could mean as long as a week and conceivably even two weeks.

Nevertheless these allied diplomats considered the resolution adopted by the Southeast Asia Treaty council of ministers at Bangkok carried enough teeth to be effective in the event the Soviet Union stalled indefinitely.

FIGHTING SLOWS

It was also reported here that while hostilities are still underway in Laos, the fighting is not on as intense a scale as in recent weeks.

Soviet consultations with the Chinese Communists were reported to be taking place in Peking rather than at the Warsaw Pact meeting in Moscow.

U.S. officials were reported to be viewing the Laotian crisis in "an atmosphere of guarded optimism" after a state department briefing of SEATO diplomats Tuesday on President Kennedy's meeting with Gromyko and British Prime Minister Macmillan.

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan said Tuesday night he has received a message giving rise to hope that Russia will regard Britain's peace proposal for Laos as a good basis for solving the crisis.

Red Parley Ends

MOSCOW (UPI)—The "summit" meeting of Communist Warsaw Pact members ended its second session in complete secrecy today. (See page 5.)

ARMORED CAR DRIVER AIDS $100,000 THEFT

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — An armored car driver and two accomplices stole $100,000 today.

While two Mayne Nickless Ltd. employees were delivering money inside the government offices to pay treasury department employees, the driver and two men stole the armored car containing almost $150,000.

The car was found abandoned a short distance away. About $50,000 unaccountably was left inside the vehicle.

Witnesses told investigating officers that three men in their late 20's had unloaded steel containers from the armored car into a station wagon and that they sped away.

'Leave Laos Alone' SEATO Warns Reds

By EARNEST HOBERECHT

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—The United States and its SEATO allies warned the Communists today not to try to take over Laos by force.

But the allies did not specify what steps they would take to prevent a Red takeover if their warning is ignored.

An eight-point statement issued in a communique at the end of the three-day seventh annual meeting of the SEATO council was an apparent compromise.

It voiced "grave concern" over Communist attempts to take over Southeast Asia in "flagrant disregard of the Geneva accords of 1954." But it stopped short of openly threatening to use force if the Soviet union rejects a British note asking an immediate cease fire in Laos.

NO HARD LINE

Comment by the foreign ministers after the conference was optimistic for public consumption. But failure to include any indication of a hard military line underscored reported differences among the delegates.

The United States, backed by Thailand and the Philippines, wanted a stern stand taken with the Russians who have been supplying Red forces in Laos.

The French wanted the communique phrased in soft terms.

The British, backed by Australia, New Zealand and Pakistan, favored a middle ground.

RUSK PLEASED

Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported "highly pleased" with what finally came out of the conference, although the U.S. did not get all it wanted. He was described as believing that the meeting "very definitely strengthened the position of SEATO and the U.S."

He warned, however, that the U.S. would "meet the threat" of Communism in Asia. Observers said this indicated that if the Soviet Union rejects the cease fire proposal, the U.S., Thailand and the Philippines might be willing to take action on their own.

Target of New York Rangers' attention is retired Montreal star, Maurice "Rocket" Richard. Rangers' general manager, Muzz Patrick, said today he will talk with Richard to see whether latter is interested in New York coaching job.

Starving Congo Seeks UN Help

(See page 7)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Congo told the United Nations today that if the world organization cannot help it financially, the country must "knock at other doors."

Congolese delegate Jean N'Sele told the General Assembly's budgetary committee hundreds of thousands of his countryman are starving and UN funds are necessary immediately.

OTTAWA AIR POLLUTED

Can't Charge Gov't; May Nab Employees

OTTAWA (CP) — The city may lay air pollution charges against the federal government—through its employees.

Told that a municipality can't lay charges against the federal government, the air pollution committee decided at a meeting to study the possibility of laying the charges against the civil servants operating the offending equipment.

"Then the Crown can stand behind him and pay the fine," suggested Alderman Ken Fogary.

The government, the capital's biggest landlord, was a frequent offender of the air pollution bylaw, members complained.

GROOS 'INVADES' OTTAWA

'How About It, Mr. P.M.?'

By TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Liberal candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich is a firm believer in the power of newspaper advertising.

The candidate, David Groos, through his campaign committee, had the following "ad" published in today's editions of an Ottawa newspaper:

"Beautiful, productive, sunny Esquimalt-Saanich, B.C., has everything except a federal member of Parliament.

"We have been without one since October, 1960. Six months is a long time. How about it, Mr. Prime Minister?

"David Groos, Liberal candidate, Esquimalt-Saanich.

"Remember, no taxation without representation."

The advertisement was obviously inspired by the prime minister's failure to fix a date for the byelection despite repeated proddings from the Opposition. Mr. Diefenbaker has consistently refused to set a date for the vote.

Canada Gives $1,250,000 To Burma

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada has agreed to allocate $1,250,000 of its 1961 Colombo Plan contribution to Burma, it was announced today.

Under an agreement between the two countries, $900,000 will be used to construct a bridge linking Rangoon with the satellite town of Thaketa.

The money, in counterpart funds from Canadian wheat sales to Burma, will be used to obtain materials and equipment from Canada and to hire the necessary Canadian supervisory personnel for the project.

The remaining $350,000 of the allocation is being used for the provision of Canadian wheat, shipment of which already has started.

New MSI Plan Aids Elderly

A new medical insurance plan intended chiefly for elderly men and women who have retired is announced by Medical Services Incorporated—a non-profit organization operated by B.C. doctors.

It is open to any resident of British Columbia, including those 65 and over not eligible for any other medical coverage.

"No medical examination is needed for enrolment and there is absolutely no age limit," an MSI spokesman said today.

Insurance is offered at $2.95 a month or $8.85 quarterly for a single person; $5.90 a month or $17.70 quarterly for two persons; $7 a month or $21 quarterly for a couple with unmarried children under 19.

WIDE BENEFITS

The benefits include:

All medical and surgical care in hospital; all medical care at home or in a doctor's office in case of accident; maternity services, including pre-natal and post-natal care, after nine months from date of enrolment.

Medical care at home or in a doctor's office for sickness is not offered under this plan, as in the case of employee-group plans operated by MSI and MSA.

Also excluded from the new plan are drugs, medicines and appliances, refractions, eyeglasses, dental and physiotherapy treatment, laboratory services or radiology.

AVAILABLE APRIL 1

In case of emergency insured persons are entitled to medical and surgical care, comparable to B.C. standards, anywhere in the world.

The offer is available from April 1 to 18 but applications can be sent to B.C. Medical Services Incorporated, 2045 West Broadway, Vancouver 9.

It is estimated there are some 650,000 British Columbians not covered by insurance plans or social assistance.

Applicants must enclose cheque or money orders to cover their first three months' subscription.

"We hope to enrol about 5,000 persons between now and April 18," the MSI spokesman said.

Since 1954, MSI has offered group insurance to firms with three to nine employees, with the employer paying half the cost of premiums.

The Medical Services Association provides insurance to firms with 10 or more employees, with the employer paying half.

IWA Sets 'Trial'

VANCOUVER—A man who ran as a Communist candidate in the last B.C. election will be tried April 8 by the International Woodworkers of America (CLC).

George Lakusta faces expulsion from IWA Local 1-217 if found guilty by a jury of local members of being a Communist. The IWA constitution does not permit Communists to be union members.

President Syd Thompson of Local 1-217 said Lakusta would not lose his job at Canadian White Pine Company if found guilty.

Mr. Thompson said a jury panel of 30 members will be chosen by drawing their card numbers out of a hat. The jury of 12 is chosen from the panel at the start of the trial.

The verdict of the jury must be ratified by a membership meeting.

DRIVERLESS CAR NUDGES HOUSE

Couple Thrown to Street

A man and his wife were thrown to the pavement and their driverless car swept into a front garden after a two-car crash at Richmond and Haultain at about 9 p.m. Tuesday.

City and Saanich police cars rushed to the scene when it was feared injuries were severe, but Cecil H. Dash, 61, and his wife Elizabeth, 52, of 1912 Carnarvon, both were discharged from Royal Jubilee Hospital later.

Third motorist, James Nelson, of 275 Sooke, was not hurt in the accident.

A crowd milling about the intersection hampered police in getting the injured to hospital and investigating the crash until traffic was rerouted from Richmond.

Cecil Dash, driver of a car travelling on Richmond, was treated for shock, and Mrs. Dash and her husband both were treated for bruises, abrasions and small cuts.

Their car was in collision with one driven on Haultain by Nelson, police said.

The Dash car then kept going into the yard at 2543 Richmond, home of Miss A. G. Scott, over a flowerbed and nudged the house.

Aldermanic Axe Falls On Cluster Light Plan

City public works committee Tuesday slashed $426,314 from its preliminary estimates including $258,000 for rehabilitation and supplementing the downtown cluster light system.

The lighting cut cleared the way for a second attempt by the committee to convince council a modern mercury lighting system should be installed in the downtown area while the cluster lights are concentrated in the tourist area surrounding the Causeway.

MORE COMING

More cuts are expected later today when the committee resumes hacking at a record preliminary estimate that originally totalled $4,017,976.

Committee members recommended spending $24,000 to put Doncaster and Clawthorpe sections of Bowker Creek underground and replace a bridge.

But another $50,000, for putting the Myrtle to Pearl section of the creek underground, was chopped for reconsideration another year.

MODERN LIGHTS

Extension of the modern lighting system on arterial streets was recommended at a total cost of $39,250 after another $37,534 was cut.

If council approves, mercury lights will be installed this year on: Pandora, Cook to Quadra; Douglas, Roundabout to Tolmie; Oak Bay Avenue, McGregor to Foul Bay Road; Burnside, Douglas to Harriet; and Cook, Pandora to Dallas.

Regier Presses Query on CHEK Interference

OTTAWA (CP)—Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) has asked the government for a progress report on measures to overcome interference in the lower mainland of British Columbia from television station CHEK in Victoria.

In written questions which will appear on the Commons order paper after the Easter recess, Mr. Regier asked how many protests have been received by the CBC and Revenue Minister Nowlan about interference, and what steps have been taken to eliminate the trouble.

He also asked whether the CBC now considers the major complaint of interference has been resolved.

'INVALID' FOOLS GUARD, ROBS TRAIN

LONDON (Reuters)—Scotland Yard used its new U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation identification kit today in an attempt to track down a "wheelchair bandit" and a male nurse who carried out a daring mail robbery aboard a busy train Tuesday night.

Police obtained descriptions of the men from a train guard and attempted to piece together their features from the jigsaw-type FBI identity kit, brought into use here during the last month.

Detectives believed the men were members of a gang which has pulled off four other train robberies since last summer and earned newspaper tags as British "Jesse Jameses."

Like the previous jobs, Tuesday's robbery was carried out with split-second timing.

A bundled-up invalid was helped aboard the train in suburban Clapham and put in the mail car to allow more room for his wheelchair. His nurse went to an adjoining car.

When the train started, the invalid sprang up and overpowered the guard.

A few miles farther down the lines, other members of the gang switched the railroad signal to red. When the train stopped, the two men tossed the mailbags out, jumped out themselves, and sped off in a waiting car.

The Two Flemings

MR. FLEMING IS A REMARKable figure in our national politics, almost a split personality. On one side he shows abilities of a high order — intelligence, industry and courage. On the other side, he is a rough-and-tumble politician playing a game of politics where no holds are barred. Both sides of this ambivalent man were clearly displayed in Victoria last week.

In conference with Mr. Bennett on the Columbia River problem, and again in a long, involved speech at the Canadian Club, Mr. Fleming was the cold, factual administrator and, without doubt, the ablest man in the Canadian government.

Coming to office as a lawyer ignorant of finance, and trapped by the many impossible promises of his opposition days, Mr. Fleming has mastered his job. For the most part it is the job of opposing the demands of his colleagues for impossible expenditures, the demands of provincial governments and of taxpayers who want far more than they are willing to pay for.

If Mr. Fleming had stopped with his Canadian Club speech Victoria would have seen only one side of him, the administrative side. But a few hours later he plunged into the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection and then an entirely different person appeared on the hustings. A rather small audience (considering his box office appeal) heard him deliver the sort of political speech quite unworthy of the nation's treasurer. By evening he had become the campaigner armed with double-talk.

In the morning he had argued the financial facts of the Columbia scheme with Mr. Bennett. At noon he had bewildered a luncheon audience with a mass of figures that only a skilled financier could possibly understand. But at night he got down to the crude over-simplifications and specious slogans of a byelection campaign.

His argument was as simple as it was invalid. Canada, he admitted, was struggling with grave problems, especially the problem of unemployment, but all this was the unhappy heritage left by the former Liberal government.

After nearly four years of office the present government cannot be blamed for the sorry state of the nation's business, the disorder of national finance, the high interest rates, the sluggish economy.

Apparently it cannot even be blamed for the collapse of Mr. Fleming's own promise to balance the present budget, or for his mistaken forecast of economic growth on which the budget was based.

Only the former government can be blamed for everything—the government which left the nation's finances in excellent order, the government under which Canada had enjoyed the highest prosperity on record.

Retrospective blame can hardly go any further. From Mr. Fleming's argument an interesting question arises: How long does the present government have to remain in office before it accepts responsibility for the management of the nation's affairs? At what point shall we cease to live under the shadow of Liberal error and enjoy the warmth of Conservative sunshine?

Not for some time yet, to judge by Mr. Fleming's political speech. The prospects being rather dark, he carries his argument a step further by complaining that the Liberals not only left a sorry mess behind them but are making it worse now by their pessimism. Their continual talk of gloom, he says, serves to frighten the public, retard business and aggravate the government's difficulties.

Yet this is the same Mr. Fleming who, with his colleagues in the opposition, was warning the nation of imminent economic disaster back in the early fifties when unemployment was less than half its present rate, the economy was growing at a record speed and the budget was in surplus.

The Conservatives' gloom of those days apparently did not affect the nation's prosperity in the least. Today, however, the Liberals are doubly to blame—they made the present mess and now worsen it by citing the statistical facts of our situation, says Mr. Fleming.

Thus the able, factual, but desperate finance minister of morning and noon becomes, at night, the free-wheeling campaigner careless of facts and blind to the record. And thus a byelection provides a fascinating study in ambivalence.

Speaking for the Indians

EXPERTS IN THEIR RESPECTIVE fields have told the Commons-Senate committee on Indian affairs that Indians face discrimination when they move off reserves and look for housing and are often given indifferent treatment when they need medical attention.

Miss Phyllis Burns, director of welfare services for the Canadian Welfare Council, has reported on the experience of welfare agencies which "refer to the problems they have in finding suitable housing" for the natives.

Mr. Guy R. Williams of Vancouver, president of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia, says that some white doctors seem to think that "aspirin is supposed to cure all the ills of Canadian Indians."

These are matters which should command the attention of the joint committee on Indian affairs. They should also command the attention of the medical profession and of citizenship organizations anxious to see a fair deal given to our native peoples.

It is not, of course, the easiest thing in the world to convince residents of various areas that other ethnic groups have as much right to chose homes and home sites as have those who place themselves in a preferred class. The old question of restricted neighborhoods, whether they are permitted or forbidden by law, is an issue which has exercised communities throughout this continent.

Canadians, however, perform a disservice to their ideals of citizenship when they permit discrimination to exist on ethnic grounds. They reduce their own stature, in like manner, when, or if, it becomes evident that any of our people fail to receive adequate medical attention.

Solutions to the problems which Miss Burns and Mr. Williams have brought to the attention of the Commons-Senate committee will not be found easily. It is encouraging, nevertheless, to see the problems frankly stated. A remedy can only be found when the condition it seeks to correct has been recognized.

Standing on Nothing

POLICY MEETINGS IN OTtawa of so-called New Party figures have underscored a point previously made in these columns.

Members of a sub-committee, under Mr. David Lewis, national CCF president, have been instructed to put together a policy statement. They have encountered sharp divis[illegible] the question of defence.

Their difficulties are accentuated by the vote at the last CCF national convention in favor of taking Canada out of NATO, and the reverse decision reached by the Canadian Labor Congress executive last June.

In other words the prospective New Party does not at this time know where it stands on this vital issue. Nor can it know certainly where it stands on any major question because the founding convention will not be held until July 31.

Hence, when any candidate is nominated for the New Party to contest byelections, his party platform remains a pig in a poke. He is placed in the invidious position of asking the voters to support a program but cannot tell them what it is.

That is precisely the position occupied by Mr. Glen Hamilton in the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection.

Let's Remember the Hometown Folk

THE EARL OF HAREWOOD, director of the Edinburgh Festival, is doubtless familiar with the roistering ballad which proclaims, in loose translation, "I belong to Glasgow and Glasgow belongs to me."

Without vulgarizing his program, he is apparently trying to infuse some of that spirit into this year's festival, to make it something with which Scots at home can identify themselves.

The festival, of course, is an excellent magnet for Edinburgh, drawing crowds of visitors who spend money with merchants of the city while they are attending various events. Lord Harewood points out that this just means extra work and larger crowds to the shop assistants who cater to the tourists.

His objective is to provide material which will strike the man in Princess Street as having something to do with what he knows of ordinary life either as he lives it or has read about it in the papers or contemporary books.

The approach might be noted by many other cities and towns which cater to tourists. By all means provide attractions which bring them in. But let the programs be such that the residents can also enjoy the productions. After all, they live in a place all year.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE

By B. A. TOBIN

Warning: You'll Find Warnings Ahead

Tobin

IT is encouraging to see that science is at last undertaking projects designed to make the world more livable, instead of concentrating on so many things that we could do without. Of course, a good deal of the new effort of science must be devoted to undoing what science has already done. But it isn't too late, and before long we may see a world provided with antidotes for all the advances that we have suffered, and remedies for the progress we have been made to undergo.

A typical example is the scientific device which blanks out commercials on the television. Here is a clever application of the power of mind over advertising matter, particularly when the huckster's message is chucked at you in the middle of love scenes, thrilling chases or interesting debates. With science to the rescue this hazard can be overcome, and we can only tender our thanks to the wizards who provided the cure.

Of a similar nature is the invention of the "silent" slot on juke boxes, so that the non-listener can purchase a period of silence.

This again was a case of science rectifying its original error in producing such a contraption as a juke box. The remedy is only partial, but it is a step in the right direction and shows what can be done.

The latest such device may be more open to question. It is an electronic gadget to be carried in the car to warn the driver that a police radar trap is ahead. The driver thereupon slows down from the safe 60 mph he was going to an even safer 30 mph, and saves his life and a $35 fine with one easy motion.

At a price of only $40 for the gadget, anyone—say a cabinet minister or grounded jet pilot—could make the thing pay for itself in a week or two.

The beauty of it is, that the device, while appearing to outwit the police, is really aiding them.

It isn't that the police want to collect fines—what they really want is that drivers observe the speed limit. Putting in a radar trap drives the lesson home, and publicity about those caught spreads the message among other motorists.

The new gadget shortens up the process. By warning the driver that radar lies ahead, it slows him down and achieves what the whole radar program is designed to do.

It's like belling the cat. Instead of the cat catching mice that attempt to raid the pantry, the bell scares the mice off from even attempting a raid.

The anti-radar warning is, however, merely a first step in the direction of driver safety. What will ultimately develop will be a similar gadget that will warn not merely of radar but of the traffic hazard the radar is designed to offset.

The driver of the future may have a little speaker on the dashboard which, connected to an electronic pickup, will keep him constantly informed of what's ahead around the next turn or two. It will be something like a backseat driver, except that the voice will be pleasant and the information will be right.

Think how it might go:

Says the voice: "It's safe to break the speed limit on this straight stretch, but around the next bend the road narrows and you'd better start to slow down. There's a car parked too far from the curb on the next curve, keep well out from it. The surface on the crest of the next hill is slippery, slow down. There's a motorcycle policeman coming down the next intersecting road—drive accordingly. It's all clear for 200 yards now, you can step on it if you like. But watch the next crossing—there's a bump . . ."

That sort of running commentary might save many a life—for those drivers it didn't drive crazy.

To save drivers' sanity, the next invention might be a device that automatically shut the contraption off when the captive audience reached boiling point.

And the next after that would be another device that automatically turned it on again after it had been automatically turned off—to save his life at the expense of his temper.

An Eastern View of a Western Problem

From The Globe and Mail, Toronto

BRITISH Columbia is a province wealthy in basic resources—lumber, coal, metals, fisheries, power. Its population, like that of Ontario, has grown explosively since the war. Yet B.C. has a level of unemployment comparable only with that of the distressed Maritime Provinces—which have few resources and are losing their population.

While B.C. has 9 per cent of Canada's labor force, it has 11 per cent of Canada's unemployed.

With the backing of the B.C. Federation of Labor, several thousands of British Columbia's 77,000 jobless have been organized into the B.C. Federation of Unemployed which made a noisy visit to the Legislative Buildings in Victoria. Shaking their fists and waving placards, the 1,500 demonstrators marched through the corridors, pounded on doors, and went up and down the stairs, all the while shouting and chanting, "We want jobs!" and "We want Bennett!"

As the mob paraded in and about the Legislative Buildings, a delegation from the Federation of Unemployed pressed Premier William Bennett to provide more jobs through public works.

Mr. Bennett replied that his government was already doing a great deal to help the jobless, and that the responsibility for further aid lay with federal authorities.

This is an easy way out for Mr. Bennett—blame Ottawa. Similarly, the B.C. unemployed choose the easy way out when they blame Mr. Bennett, and say that he should provide them with [illegible]

Basic Reason

The essential reason for British Columbia's high level of unemployment is not to be found either in Ottawa or in Victoria; it is to be found in the basic industries of the province, which have spent the last 10 years pricing themselves out of world markets.

British Columbia is the most unionized province of Canada; and its unions are noted for their militancy. With the highest wages in Canada, they press for more; with the shortest hours in Canada, they press for fewer; and these demands are often backed up with long, destructive, and costly strikes.

Thus, the International Woodworkers of America, who went out for 10 weeks in 1959—crippling B.C.'s biggest single industry—seem likely to go out again this summer; among other things, they are demanding a wage increase of a dollar a day, and double time for overtime.

It was through such costly demands that B.C. lumber lost its position in the British market.

As the 1950s opened B.C. sold twice as much lumber to Britain as Russia sold to Britain. When the 1950s ended, the situation had been reversed—Russia dominated the British lumber market, Sweden and Finland followed, and British Columbia was trailing in fourth place.

British Columbia's salmon fishermen struck in 1959; they may do so again this summer, when their two-year contract expires. (During the last 10 years, there have been 24 strikes in the B.C. fishing industry, each followed by a reduction of employment.)

Construction unions which walked out in 1959 are pressing new demands. The B.C. Federation of Labor has started a drive for the seven-hour day.

From all this, it would seem that unemployment in British Columbia is going to get worse before it gets better—not because of anything Ottawa does or fails to do, not because of anything Victoria does or fails to do, but because trade unionists in British Columbia do not comprehend the relationship between wages and prices, between prices and sales, between sales and jobs.

This lack of comprehension is perhaps the most depressing thing about the B.C. unemployment problem—or crisis, as some would call it. Leading citizens of the province have been saying for years that the wage-price spiral was carrying it to disaster; that B.C. labor and management must stop feuding, and co-operate to reduce costs.

Even Mr. Harold Winch, the veteran socialist MP for Vancouver East, joined in the chorus a year ago. Returning from a world tour, he said that B.C. had earned itself a bad reputation as "the place where you have all the strikes"; that Canadian unionists could not assume that the world owed them a living; that business, labor and government "have to find stability, or our markets are going to vanish completely."

These warnings have gone unheeded. Not even Mr. Winch was able to get his message across; one union official commented: "I can only conclude that during his travels, Harold got a touch of the sun."

It is evident that B.C. labor will have to learn its lesson the hard way. The lesson is that jobs—if people really want jobs—are not made by shouting, shaking fists, waving placards, or rushing up and down the corridors of government buildings.

Jobs are not made by going on strike; by pushing wages ahead of productivity or by taking things easy in an industrialized world.

Jobs are made, and in BC. especially, by producing what other nations are willing to buy, at prices which other nations are willing to pay.

WASHINGTON:

Burden In Laos

By MAX FREEDMAN

Freedman

PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S conference with Prime Minister Macmillan and his message to President de Gaulle have resulted in agreement that the situation in Laos must not be allowed to deteriorate. But this unity among the three western powers must still be tested by Russia's response to the invitation for a cease-fire in Laos. There is small expectation here that the Russian answer, as given to Mr. Kennedy by Mr. Gromyko on Monday, can be anything but a bargaining measure designed to win the best terms for a Communist advance. The Russian reply deserves more careful study before its full significance can be assessed.

Meanwhile the state department is being greatly encouraged by reports that Prime Minister Nehru has made some progress with his efforts at mediation with the Russian government.

Key to Crisis

The importance attached in Washington to Mr. Nehru's role can be seen in the statement by Senator Mansfield, Democratic leader in the Senate, that the "key to the crisis" rests with two men: Prime Minister Nehru and the King of Laos.

Mr. Nehru has advised the Russian authorities that an immediate cease-fire is urgent, to be followed by the revival in New Delhi of the International Control Commission. If Britain and Russia ask India as chairman to reconvene the commission, it can begin to function in a few days. India has been in touch with Canada and Poland, the other two members.

Mr. Nehru has expressed concern about the military preparedness of the United States in the Pacific, and still greater anxiety about the talk of intervention by the SEATO countries. He strongly supports the British initiative to bring Russia and China to the conference table, once a cease-fire has been arranged in Laos.

He is equally pleased by the clarity and firmness with which the Kennedy Administration has proclaimed its approval of a neutral Laos but regrets that American policy has often lacked this precise moderation in recent years. On Thursday Mr. Rusk will fly to New Delhi from the SEATO conference to reassure Mr. Nehru on these points and to acquaint him with the conference's decisions.

President Kennedy has already received the public support of Mr. Eisenhower who sees the present policy as a continuation of his own program to save Laos from Communist domination.

Even more important, in terms of political support in Congress, has been the statement of Senator Bridges, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, who said his Republican colleagues believe President Kennedy is following the right course now. This Republican message of confidence has been conveyed to the White House.

Truman's War

At the beginning of the Korean War President Truman had the support of the Republican Party in Congress. Later however the Republicans described the fighting as "Truman's war" because the president refused to obtain a declaration of support from congress and referred to the military intervention in Korea as a "police action."

At every stage of the present crisis President Kennedy has avoided this mistake. On his instructions the Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress have been informed of the latest changes in Laos by Vice-President Johnson, Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Defence McNamara, and Mr. Bowles, the Under-secretary of State.

Consequently there is a far greater unity in Washington in facing the Laotian situation than there was in meeting the crisis in Korea in 1950.

But this asset must be placed against four negative factors. In 1950 there was a clear case of aggression across a frontier; now there is a slow deterioration in a country unable to save itself from Communist pressure. The Koreans were willing to fight; the Laotians seem almost casual in their crisis.

Heaviest Burdens

After the experiences of 1950, there is little doubt among the American people that they will have to carry by far the heaviest burdens in Laos, no matter what tokens of unity may be offered by the SEATO nations.

Finally, and most importantly, the memories of the Korean War, with its disappointing results after so many sacrifices, are in themselves the greatest obstacles to military involvement in Laos, where the losses could be equally cruel and the harvest even more shabby.

All these influences temper the nation's willingness to resist the Communist thrust. While appeasement remains a dirty synonym for a coward's futility, it is also true that many Americans are inclined to regard a divided Laos as the only solution short of war now available to Western diplomacy, once events have been allowed to drift into the present dangerous tangle. They would regard such a settlement with shame and gratitude.

But they are being told by American officials that there may be no escape from their dilemma even on these squalid terms.

These officials see Laos as part of a larger Communist plan to divide and weaken the free nations. Despite the manifest and massive reluctance to meet new sacrifices in Asia, this interpretation, by the very harshness of its logic, is carrying its conviction to the American people.

They would not lift a single nervous finger to help Laos alone but to resist a quick triumph for Communist aggression their hand may soon close in a hard fist of resolution and defiance.

THE LIGHTER SIDE By DICK WEST

Barnum Was a Piker

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The postulation by P. T. Barnum that a sucker is born every minute has long been accepted, particularly in places like Las Vegas, as one of the eternal verities.

West

Lately, however, I have been wondering whether Barnum's theorem is still valid. After all, people have become much more knowledgeable and sophisticated in the past decade or two.

If someone took a new gullibility census, I believe it would show that the sucker birth rate has changed a lot since Barnum's time.

I doubt that suckers are born at a one-a-minute clip any longer. Nowadays, the rate probably is closer to five per minute.

The need for up-dating Barnum became apparent to me as I was reading a report issued by the food and drug administration on some of its recent cases.

The report tended to support my contention that people have become too wise to fall for the "gold brick" hoax and other tricks of the old-fashioned confidence man.

What people do now is pay $3.75 a gallon for sea water in the belief that it will cure serious illnesses and otherwise act as a "fountain of youth."

According to the food and drug administration, an Ohio promoter bottled 93 gallons of ocean water near Belmar, N.J., and offered it for sale as a "chemical smorgasbord."

Literature used as promotional material promised that "by taking a little sea water per day we can thus offer our bodily glands, a 'chemical smorgasbord'."

"Figuratively," it said, "the pancreas, liver and spleen, bone marrow, thyroid, adrenals and other organs can march around this chemical smorgasbord helping themselves to whatever they require to produce the manufactured secretions that guard our health."

The mere thought of my liver and spleen marching around inside my body would have been enough to deter me from buying any of the stuff.

But the sea water impresario presumably would have done a brisk business had not the food and drug agents stepped in and booked him on a false labelling charge.

The agents likewise cracked down on a vitamin product that was billed as a treatment for arthritis, high blood pressure, goiter and various other ailments. Among other ingredients, it contained alfalfa, water cress, parsley, wheat germ, mint leaves, beets, buckwheat, yeast, prunes, and oyster and egg shells.

Other products seized by the agents included some air filters touted as relieving heart trouble, asthma, hay fever and shortness of breath.

The fact that some people believe such claims does not prove that Barnum was right. It only proves that Barnum didn't know how right he was.

HOME GARDEN By HILDA BEASTALL

'Transfer Time' for Cuttings

Cuttings which were taken early in the month of the various garden plants will mostly have rooted by this time, and it is the wise gardener who transfers them to individual pots as soon as possible.

Hilda

At this time of year growth is rapid, and the most satisfactory plants are those which have an adequate food supply for the roots and sufficient space for top growth.

Chrysanthemum cuttings for example should be potted up as soon as roots form. If a small number are being grown, one rooted cutting to a five-inch pot of rich soil will produce splendid plants for putting into the border towards the end of April. Flats of soil will accommodate a large number of rooted cuttings for a short period.

GIVE THEM SHADE

Shade the plants from direct sunlight for a few days after potting, but thereafter they should be placed in the best light available and gradually become accustomed to being outdoors. Showery, overcast nights are ideal for acclimatizing indoor grown plants to outdoor night conditions after being out in the day and in at night for a couple of weeks.

Fuchsia and geranium cuttings (in fact, all the pelargoniums) need also to be potted as soon as rooted. Otherwise the stems are inclined to become woody and the plant to be stunted.

GOOD START

Three-inch pots for small cuttings, and four-inch for larger ones will send them off to a good start.

Further repotting will not be necessary if they are to be planted into outdoor patio boxes or into garden beds during early May.

The same hardening-off process (acclimatizing to the outdoors) should be done as with the chrysanthemums.

Night Sittings Set For Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—Members of the Saskatchewan Legislature face a hectic week following a three-day Easter weekend.

Premier T. C. Douglas told members Tuesday that morning and night sessions will be called starting next Tuesday in an effort to wrap up the current session as soon as possible.

If necessary, the legislature would sit on Saturdays, he said. The House so far has sat for 34 days, including nine night sittings.

Massive Retaliation Discarded by JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Tuesday officially discarded "massive retaliation" as the U.S. all-purpose war deterrent.

In its place Kennedy prescribed in his special defence budget message to Congress the application of what military men call the "balanced force concept." (See story, force concept."

What this means is: don't put all your eggs in one basket.

It means the United States should be equally prepared for any war—big, little or in-between.

While Kennedy has indicated dissatisfaction in the past with the size and shape of the U.S. armed forces, the remedy he ordered is not original with him.

ONLY COINCIDENCE

It may be only coincidence, but nearly everything the president recommended Tuesday was outlined by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, former army chief of staff, in a recent issue of Foreign Affairs Quarterly.

Taylor fought a long and losing battle against the Eisenhower doctrine of "more bang for a buck."

INTO CONFLICT

This brought him into conflict with the air force—chief proponents of the theory that an overwhelming nuclear strike force is the best guarantee against all wars, large and small.

While this fight was going on, the air force steadily grew more powerful and the army and navy dwindled to a point bordering on ineffectiveness in limited—that is, in non-nuclear—war.

HAVE TO SHARE

Now it seems that the air force is going to have to share its strategic role with the navy, and the army is to be upgraded to a role approaching equality.

Crown Silent As Traffic Charge Fails

A careless driving case that resulted in a new caution to police investigating accidents was dismissed in Saanich police court Tuesday.

Magistrate William Ostler, who read a detailed judgment on the admissability of certain evidence last week, dismissed the charge without comment after a defence motion by counsel Jack Gatehouse.

There was no comment from prosecutor Kenneth Murphy, who had asked for an adjournment last week while awaiting instructions from the attorney-general.

He said he had received no instructions, but expects comment from the department later.

James Erickson, 5162 Cordova Bay, was charged with careless driving after making certain statements to police while filling out an accident report in accordance with the Motor Vehicle Act.

Mr. Ostler ruled such evidence privileged and therefore inadmissable. The court added a word of caution to police generally that a motorist must be warned at the scene of an accident that he may be charged and that anything he says may be used in evidence.

Without Erickson's statements, the Crown's case collapsed, resulting in the defence request for dismissal.

REDS' INTERPRETATION KNITS BROWS

'Peaceful Co-Existence' No Bar to Localized War

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A riddle perplexing Western military strategists:

1. What do the Communists really mean by "peaceful co-existence?" How far are the Communists really willing to go in supporting local wars?

2. At what point, if any, should the Free World draw a line and advise the Communists that to step across it will mean all-out war?

3. Is nuclear war itself so unthinkable that the Free World can be blackmailed—as the Red Chinese contend—into the surrender of nation after nation?

It is in light of these questions that the entire strategy of the United States is undergoing reappraisal.

The Communists apparently interpret "peaceful co-existence" as world domination through means less than all-out war.

RUSSIA-CHINA DIFFER

Russia is the leading exponent among the Communist countries of "peaceful co-existence." The Chinese are the opponents of the doctrine.

The key to the Russian position seems to lie in a statement made by Soviet Maj.-Gen. N. Talensky last November about the time the Communist countries were holding their Moscow "summit" session. Talensky wrote:

"The world population would be reduced by half as a result of new global war. Moreover, the most active, capable and civilized portion of mankind would be wiped out . . ."

In brief, while the Communists may not fear a war with the West, they do fear a war in which their technological superiority and higher living standards would be wiped out and they would become subordinated to the Red Chinese.

The Dec. 6 manifesto from the Communist "summit conference, however, contained this line: "Experience confirms that it is possible to take effective action against local wars" although they "bring mankind to the brink of world catastrophe."

ANALYZED BY NATO

An analysis of this statement by the political experts of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization concluded:

"This expressed belief in the possibility of containing local wars will enable Communists to give support—if necessary, physical support — to extremists throughout the world to the extent they consider it can be confined to a local context."

This small-war section of the manifesto apparently was a concession by the Russians to the theories of the Red Chinese.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, an associate professor of public law and government at Columbia University's Russian institute, told the Senate foreign relations committee in Washington in February that the Russians feel the Communists "cannot push the West too hard or it will stand up and fight."

He said the Red Chinese rulers, however, think Russia "can push very hard and not be afraid to go into local wars."

Thus, Brzezinski said, every time the West fails to stand up to the Russians it is weakening their argument against pushing too hard.

This limited war concept differs considerably from that held in the U.S. The latter has concluded that in view of the huge masses of men available to the Communist countries, especially the Chinese, it would have no choice under certain circumstances but to employ small-yield nuclear weapons.

It is at this point of conflict in doctrine that the East-West danger lies. The Russians say the use of nuclear weapons of any size are evidence of an intent to engage in a larger war. The U.S. argues that nuclear weapons are the only means of overcoming its manpower disadvantage.

Thus, both countries might intend to engage in a limited war but by the very nature of their differing interpretations it could become the big one.

Atom Arms for E. Germany Studied at Moscow Parley

BERLIN (Reuters) — East German officials hinted today that Communist leaders now meeting in Moscow might decide to base nuclear weapons in East Germany.

Deputy Premier Max Suhrbier said he was "sure" the top-level delegates at the Moscow meeting of the Warsaw Pact council would decide on new measures in the East-West dispute over the future of divided Germany.

He told a press conference the measures would "frustrate al' the plans of the (West German) atomic war and revenge politicians and assure peace."

Suhrbier did not elaborate on his reference to the pact meeting, which opened Tuesday. But a defence ministry spokesman indicated it was possible part of the discussions among the leaders of the eight pact nations would concern placing atomic weapons in East Germany.

Actor Convicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Jason Robards, Jr., was convicted Tuesday of drunken and reckless driving, growing out of a traffic accident last fall. His sentencing in court was deferred to April 11. He will lose his driver's licence, and also faces a maximum 13 months in jail and a $600 fine.

SAANICH TO LOOK AT ALTERNATE SITES

Civic Centre Plan Falling Apart

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A long-range plan to establish a Saanich civic centre and park at Swan Lake appears to be disintegrating.

Councillors, at a special building committee meeting Tuesday, balked at re-endorsing the plan which they approved about two years ago.

Couns. Ainslee Worthington and Gregory Cook expressed doubts the Swan Lake area now is the best location for the project.

TODD SWITCHES

Coun. Harold Todd did an "about-face" and lined up with Couns. Joseph Casey and Leslie Passmore, opponents of the civic centre project.

This left only Reeve George Chatterton and Coun. Stanley Murphy firmly backing the original plan.

The plan calls for the integration of civic buildings, such as a joint fire-police hall, health and welfare centre and municipal hall, all in one area.

The committee, instead of voting on a motion in support of its previous decision, recommended council to take another look at alternate sites before moving on the Swan Lake area.

MORE DELAY

This means a further delay in the construction of a joint fire-police hall on Haynes Road in the Swan Lake area.

Alternate sites to be reviewed were all considered many months ago but rejected in favor of the Swan Lake area because of its strategic location and room for expansion.

The only exception was Coun. Passmore, who has always favored Royal Oak as a site for a civic centre.

Some of the sites to be reviewed are located at the southwest corner of Quadra and McKenzie; Christmas Hill, west of Rainbow, which runs north from McKenzie; Beckwith, near Quadra, and Royal Oak.

REEVE SURPRISED

The indecision of some councillors who had previously backed the Swan Lake scheme came as a surprise to Reeve George Chatterton.

"I have no objection to studying further the alternate sites," he said, "but I thought councillors had thoroughly gone into that months ago. But by all means get all the facts before making a decision."

The reeve called the special building committee meeting because "certain people have been saying that the proposed site for the fire-police hall is unsuitable for building".

ERRONEOUS

He said the impression was passed around that the hall is to be built on peat soil and that its construction would involve the municipality in heavy costs for drainage.

This was erroneous and he wanted to clear the matter up, he said.

Four experts: architect R. W. Siddall; construction engineer Reginald Thurber, whose firm conducted the soil tests; Saanich engineer Neville Life, and town planner Antony Parr, were on hand to give their views on the building site.

Mr. Siddall, backed by Mr. Thurber, said the new fire-police hall site was suitable for building and presented no abnormal hazards.

EASY CONVERSION

As for the adjacent low-lying land which is flooded in winter, they said the subsoil consisted of peat moss. This could easily be converted into a parking lot or park with fill.

Coun. Passmore and Coun. Casey asked if a nearby Vernon Avenue site would be costly to develop for the joint fire-police hall.

Mr. Siddall replied that about 4,000 feet of rock would have to be blasted to make the Vernon Street site suitable for the hall. In addition, he said, it would also require about 4,000 yards of fill at 80 cents a cubic yard to level out the land.

COSTLIER

It would cost about $58,000 to develop the Vernon Street site as against $36,000 for the proposed Haynes property, consisting of about eight acres, he said.

"So you consider the Haynes site suitable and presenting no problems for its development?" asked the reeve.

"Yes sir—so stated quite a number of times," replied Mr. Siddall.

Coun. Passmore interjected: "I don't see why we should build a civic centre on a swamp."

Both Reeve Chatterton and Coun. Worthington took the councillor to task.

"BE FAIR"

"For goodness sake be fair," replied the reeve. "You know very well we do not propose to construct any buildings on the low-lying land."

"You know as well as anybody here that the low-lying area is for eventual development as a park and parking lot," he added. "The area you talk about is to give the civic centre a setting—trees, lawns and lake frontage."

Coun. Passmore later in the discussion said he still held to his original view that the Swan Lake area should be used as a commercial area because of its strategic location.

"It is valuable land," he said. "It would bring the municipality revenue."

France Rejects Congo UN Share

Canadian Senator Criticizes Russia For Stand on Costs, Hammarskjold

(Times News Services)

UNITED NATIONS—Informed sources said Tuesday the French government has advised the United Nations it will not contribute to the cost of the UN military operation in The Congo.

The sources said President Charles de Gaulle and his ministers have felt from the outset—and have said so—that excluding troops of "interested European countries" from the UN Congo force was a fundamental error.

Another error, from the official French viewpoint, has been the UN's failure to throw all practical support on the spot to the Congolese government of President Joseph Kasavubu.

France is the first major Western power to take that position on the UN's tangled financial affairs—a problem that has catapulted the world body into its worst money crisis.

In the 99-nation budgetary committee Tuesday, Canada had criticized Russia for its failure to contribute anything to the UN's Congo operation. The criticism was made in a speech by Senator F. M. Blois, Canadian delegate to the budgetary committee.

Senator Blois also attacked Russia's contention that Canadian troops have no place in the UN Congo force because Canada is a member of NATO.

On the purely financial question, 19 Latin-American countries let it be known they favor only "symbolic" payments to the UN Congo budget for which UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold has asked $135,000,000. An advisory committee has estimated this could be reduced to $120,000,000.

Most of the speech by Blois dealt with financial matters but he referred to "one small error" made last Friday by Russian delegate A. A. Roschin, who said Hammarskjold erred in sending troops of Canada, a NATO country, to The Congo.

"I am sure he would not wish to mislead the committee consciously," Blois said, noting that Canada has sent only non-combat communications personnel totalling about 250 in a force of 18,000.

"I am sure he was not suggesting that Canada had any ambitions in The Congo, for that would be too absurd. Furthermore, Canada's membership in a defensive organization created for reasons he must well know, can have no bearing on Canada's assuming duties requested of it by the United Nations."

REFUSES TO PAY

The Soviet bloc, demanding withdrawal of The Congo force, refuses to pay anything for its support and has called for the dismissal of Hammarskjold as a tool of imperialists guilty of responsibility in the slaying of the deposed Congolese premier Patrice Lumumba.

"My delegation finds intolerable the malicious and totally unfounded statement alleging the secretary-general's complicity in murder," Blois declared.

"INDIVISIBLE"

He said Canada regards as "indivisible" the normal functions of the UN and its peacekeeping operations—The Congo force and UN Emergency Force which has been standing between Israel and its Arab neighbors since 1956. Numerous countries are in arrears on all counts.

FIRE CAPTAIN RETIRES

He Lasted Longer Than Pump Truck

Victoria fireman Alexander McAllister, 60, puts 36 years' service behind him with his retirement Thursday from the city force.

A captain since 1951, "Alex" McAllister served just slightly longer than the 1925 LaFrance pump truck retired by Victoria fire department a few months ago.

Fellow firefighters will honor him with a presentation in the Yates Street fire hall at noon Thursday.

YOUNG VOLUNTEER

Capt. McAllister had been one of the country's youngest First World War volunteers and served overseas before joining the fire department permanent staff July 5, 1925.

He also saw Second World War service. He obtained a leave of absence from the fire department from March to October, 1944, when he served in the Merchant Marine.

Promoted to lieutenant on August 1, 1946, he held the rank five years before he was made captain.

He has a home and family in Victoria and lives at 1461 Walnut.

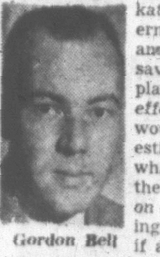
Provincial Bond Plans Will Hit Federal Issues

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor



Gordon Bell

An idle remark was passed in this space a couple of months ago when the Saskatchewan government first announced its savings bond plan, to the effect that it would be interesting to see what effect there would be on Canada Savings Bond sales if a number of other provinces followed the Saskatchewan lead.

Of course, prior to the Saskatchewan issue, the B.C. parity bonds had been on the market for some time and there was no doubt they had some effect on Canada Savings Bond sales.

Now Manitoba has concluded a successful sale of provincial savings bonds and the word is that Ontario is looking with considerable interest on a similar plan.

With Ontario and perhaps three or four other provinces issuing parity bonds bearing interest at a rate one-quarter per cent higher than the federal bonds, there is no doubt that a tremendous amount of personal savings would be mopped up.

In fact the diversion of personal savings to provincial parity bonds could cause difficulties for capital-seeking organizations other than the federal government and would certainly have the effect of keeping pressure on interest rates.

The Canadian bond market in general is less than buoyant these days with considerable new financing and unsold balances. There has been hesitancy on the part of some investors and even the long-awaited province of Ontario $50 million 5⅓ and 5½ issue was hardly enthusiastically received.

Payment had been postponed due to uncertainty over export orders for coal.

Duncan Davidson, manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company office in Victoria, and president-elect of the Canadian Life Underwriters' Association, has been promoted to the position of field training director for Canada and leaves for the Metropolitan head office in Ottawa at the weekend.

Mr. Davidson has been manager here for 10 years and has been active in the local Life Underwriters' Association. He has also been active in the First United Church here, serving three years as treasurer and two years as chairman of the board of managers.

One of Mr. Davidson's last official acts was to release an interesting Metropolitan Life bulletin which vividly illustrates the change in insurance company disbursements from the time not too many years ago when almost the only people to collect on life policies were the beneficiaries.

The bulletin shows that on the basis of company-wide averages, about twice as much was paid last year to living policy holders as was paid to beneficiaries. Total payments to British Columbia policy-holders and beneficiaries last year was $4,897,945.

Associated Newspapers has a 51 per cent interest in Anglo-Newfoundland and there was a sympathetic rise in the price of the shares.

AT VANCOUVER mining stocks were active with prices slightly stronger. Volume was moderate. Industrials showed some gain. Torwest between 42 and 44. Cowichan Copper reached 30½. Craigmont traded between $9.45 and $9.50. Trans Mtn. Pipe went to $14.

TODAY'S GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Sharp decline in U.S. markets reflected on the Winnipeg grain exchange today with the appearance of liberal offerings in response to the break.

Lack of confidence in recent U.S. grain legislation formed the basis for the situation.

Some selling was credited to U.S. sources.

A cargo of Canadian wheat was reported sold to Malta.

Hong Kong Imports Face Curb

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian imposition of a special "escape clause" tariff against imports of Hong Kong textiles and footwear appeared Tuesday as a possibility following an unsuccessful attempt to have Hong Kong voluntarily limit such shipments.

One big issue at stake is the successful continuation of the present arrangement whereby Japan imposes voluntary controls on shipments of certain textiles and other products to Canada.

Finance Minister Fleming told the Commons Monday that the British colony had declined Canada's request to impose similar voluntary controls on shipments of certain items of clothing and rubber and canvas footwear.

He said the government now will have to "consider what steps need to be taken, bearing in mind the need for avoiding disruption in the Canadian market and the system of voluntary restraints on exports to Canada maintained by Japan."

A trade official said Tuesday that two methods are available under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

One is the GATT escape clause, allowing emergency action where domestic industry is suffering serious injury or the threat of serious injury or the threat or serious injury from imports from another GATT member.

The second method is a renegotiation of tariffs—a measure not considered useful in this instance since a tariff level adequate to meet normal competition from other Western countries would not meet the problem of low-cost Hong Kong imports.

Negotiations have been continuing for some time with Japan on the level of the quota restrictions to be applied to shipments of Japanese goods.

CLOSE DOESN'T COUNT

Although defenceman Gordon Strate has stick uncomfortably close to his ear, Victoria's Barrie Ross gets slap at rebound with Edmonton goaltender Dennis Riggin out of position. Riggin watches puck slide just wide of net and Flyers later came from behind to pull out 4-3 victory over Cougars at Memorial Arena Tuesday night. In background are Don Poile (9) of Edmonton and Victoria's Bill Johansen. Victory kept Flyers in running for playoff berth. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Flyers Eager to Let Cats Have the Exclusive Rights

Edmonton 4, Cougars 3

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Edmonton Flyers refuse to roll over and play dead, and it might be because they believe Victoria Cougars own exclusive rights to that act.

Edmonton appeared to be writing its own obituary for the better part of two periods at Memorial Arena Tuesday night, but it was the Cougars who suddenly rolled over and expired.

So, today, thanks to one line that shouldered all the mail in carrying Flyers to a dramatic 4-3 comeback victory, the Edmonton club can still scent the aroma of Western Hockey League playoff money.

Still, it will take some doing and that must be considered consoling words for Victoria's grief-stricken fans. Edmonton must win its two remaining games—tonight in Vancouver and Friday in Edmonton against the last-place Winnipeg Warriors—and Cougars must lose the three that remain on Victoria's schedule.

A tie, either way, can hammer the final nail into Edmonton's coffin.

Cougars, who now have lost three straight, try again Friday night against Portland if Vancouver doesn't help them back into the playoffs tonight. Victoria's other games, both on the road, are against Spokane and Seattle.

Cougars were unfortunate in not pulling out a victory—or at least an equally-satisfying tie—against Edmonton Tuesday night.

They played well enough for 50 of the 60 minutes to win it all. Sad to say, they didn't. And on that count they may deserve any criticism disgruntled fans may steer their way today.

The fans, in truth, forgot the 50 good minutes. The bad moments are recalled easiest and how can anyone forget the fact that Cougars lost a one-goal decision after leading by three goals.

It wasn't expected that a professional team fighting for a playoff berth would relax its defences. But that's just what happened.

Three goals in the span of three minutes wiped out Victoria's 3-0 lead in the second period.

McLeod Gambled and Cougars Lost

A goal by Warren Hynes at 18.21 of the third period capped Cougars' frustrations and kept Edmonton's fleeting hopes alive. A two-on-one break while Cougars were pressing in Flyers' zone led to the winner.

Victoria defenceman Don McLeod gambled to keep the puck in Edmonton's zone. Hynes beat him to the punch and swept down the left boards, using Roger Dejordy as a decoy before beating goalie Marcel Pelletier with a low, angled shot.

The gamble, it seemed, was unnecessary. A tie would have been good enough, but Cougars elected to go for broke.

Hynes, Dejordy and Billy McNeill shouldered Edmonton's scoring load. By far Edmonton's best unit, they accounted for all of Flyers' goals. Dejordy got two and an assist while McNeill—a big factor in Edmonton's late-season drive—got one and two assists. Hynes also picked up two assists.

George Ford scored twice for Victoria, raising his season's production to 24, and Barrie Ross added the other tally.

The final result still couldn't detract from the performance of Victoria centre Gerry Goyer. The big pivot played one of his finest games of the season and was unfortunate in not picking up a half-dozen points.

He continually sent Ford and Wayne North into the clear with his pin-point passing, and was a standout all around.

The officiating by Lou Farelli was good. He allowed the teams to play their own game and it contributed to a wide open affair.

Three of the five penalties went to Edmonton, but the costly one was called against Cougars. Leo Amadio went off for holding at 15.30 and eight seconds later McNeill put Edmonton on the scoreboard for the first time to ignite Flyers' three-goal outburst.

SPOKANE (CP) — Centre Rudy Filion, making a late bid to overhaul Lou Jankowski in the individual scoring race, rammed in two goals and assisted on another as his Seattle Totems whipped Spokane Comets 3-1 in a Western Hockey League game here Tuesday night.

The result gave the Totems a four-point cushion over Vancouver Canucks in their battle for third place in the league standings. Seattle has played one more game than the Canucks.

Bill MacFarland, also making a late bid in the scoring derby, scored the other Seattle goal while Bev Bell popped in the only Spokane goal in the second period.

Midway through the final period, Comets' Tom Hodges was given a hooking penalty. It was the signal for more than 3,100 Spokane fans to shower the ice with programs and popcorn boxes, holding up the game for six minutes.

The three points for Filion moved him into a three-way tie with MacFarland and Portland's Art Jones in the individual scoring race, each has 93 points. Jankowski of Calgary leads with 98.

LONDON (Reuters) — West Bromwich Albion defeated Aston Villa 1-0 in an English Soccer League (First Division) game at Aston Villa, Tuesday night.

WATSON TO BRUINS!

Phil Clears Decks For Coaching Bid

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Phil Watson, former coach of New York Rangers in the National Hockey League, was released Tuesday at his own request as coach of Providence Reds in the American League.

It was reported that Watson is in line to coach Boston Bruins in the NHL, replacing Milt Schmidt. The Bruins finished last this season. Providence is a Boston farm club.

There also is a possibility that Watson may be rehired as the Rangers' coach. Alf Pike, who succeeded Watson in New York, was fired last week.

Providence general manager Terry Reardon said Watson [illegible] of tentative offers of other positions.

ROCKET SURPRISED

In other hockey news Maurice "Rocket" Richard has expressed surprise about a newspaper report quoting him as saying he would be willing to accept a coaching post with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

"I haven't been approached by anyone about any job," the now-retired Canadiens star told reporters when asked about the report.

"I have no ambition to be a coach," he added.

Uplands Women Collect Trophies

Mrs. T. J. Liddell and Mrs. C. R. Locatelli are newest holders of two of the trophies put up for competition among women members at Uplands Golf Club.

Mrs. Liddell edged Mrs. C. Hill for the New Year's Vase while Mrs. Locatelli, scoring 96-26—70, claimed the Robinson Trophy.

Yawata Squad Trips Touring Kats, 14-8

YAWATA, Japan (Reuters)—The touring Vancouver Kats rugby team today lost a hard-fought game against Yawata Steel World, 14-8, in this southern Japan city.

At halftime, Yawata led 9-3.

The Kats gave away three points when penalized near their posts for offside four minutes after play started. For most of the first half, the more agile and faster Yawata forwards and backs had the Kats' defence struggling to hold their line.

The Yawata forwards cut through with a series of loose rushes that forced the Canadians into kicking and handling mistakes. Poor tackling by the Canadians allowed the Yawata team to keep most of the play in the Kats' half.

The touring team's points came on a try by Mike Clarke and another try and a convert by Barry Stubbs.

Grand Prix Starts Sports Car Season

Marg Goldie Rolls Top Fivepin Triple

MARG GOLDIE

The Greater Victoria fivepin triple record for both men and women this season now belongs to Marg Goldie.

Rolling in Esquimalt Bowladrome's Monday mixed league this week, Marg came up with a fancy 970 to grab a hefty lead in the race for the area triple title.

Using her usual medium-pace ball, she put together games of 336, 326 and 308 for the series.

The score topped marks of 966 set by Emil Liska in the men's section and 889 set recently at the same lanes by Bea Lundgren.

Marg's score would have been even higher if she hadn't left a corner pin in the second game and failed to spare. Altogether she collected 25 out of a possible 36 strikes.

Leafs Hanging on Ropes But Habs Punching Hard

Bruin Castoffs Providing Spark To Wing Attack

DETROIT — "The skirmishing's over — now the battle's going to begin. We don't lose battles."

These defiant words came from Toronto coach Punch Imlach in an unlighted corridor of Olympia Stadium Tuesday night after his Maple Leafs had been trounced 4-1 by Detroit Red Wings.

"We have to beat them in Toronto Saturday and then come back here and win again," said Imlach. "It'll be a tough battle."

Far away from Imlach, the Red Wings cheered wildly in the dressing room about their startling advantage of 3-1 in games over the Leafs.

"No, no predictions," said coach Sid Abel, whose team jelled just in time for the playoffs. "But being ahead 3-1 is great, just great."

That Explains It

Jack Adams, the Detroit manager who built the great Red Wings championship team of the 1950s, explained his club's amazing rise.

"They're working their guts out," said Adams. "That Boston trade got us going. And my rookie defenceman, Howie Young, is playing tremendous hockey. He's belting them all over the ice and he's made our other fellows start to hit."

The Boston trade in January brought Detroit Vic Stasiuk and Leo Labine. Labine scored Detroit's first goal that tied the score 1-1 late in the first period. Stasiuk set up Detroit's second and winning goal in the second period with a perfect pass to Gordie Howe.

"More power to Leafs if they can beat us three straight now," said Adams. "Don't say it's impossible. I've been around this league long enough to see it happen."

Old Pals in Action

However, if Leafs do run into an early spring, they can blame it on Howe and Stasiuk.

Tuesday night before 13,190 delirious fans at the Olympia here, Howe scored the game-winning goal. Two nights earlier, Howe got the winner when the Wings shut out the Leafs 2-0, and the fellow who set him up both times was Stasiuk.

Labine, Marcel Pronovost and Val Fonteyne scored the other Detroit goals. Left winger Bert Olmstead scored for Leafs.

The teams meet again in Toronto Saturday night. If a sixth game is needed, it will be staged here Sunday.

Veterans Called In

Coach Punch Imlach of the Leafs, playing the psychological angle for all its worth, called on two injured oldtimers in a dramatic last-minute move to bolster the faltering Toronto squad.

Olmstead, racked up in the opening game, flew in from Toronto Tuesday afternoon and centre Red Kelly, whom Imlach said a day earlier would not dress, popped up in the lineup.

For nearly 13 minutes Imlach looked like a genius.

Olmstead put Leafs in front 1-0 at 12.52 of the first period with a goal from about eight feet out while Howe watched from the penalty box on an interference call by referee Frank Udvari.

With 52 seconds remaining in the period, dominated by Leafs, Howe flicked a pass to Labine. His shot bounced in off rookie Dave Keon's stick to tie the score.

Awesome Shooting Display Made 'Em Forget Geoffrion

CHICAGO — Confident they have regained the scoring power befitting champions, Montreal Canadiens relaxed today on the long train ride home awaiting another crack at the pesky and unpredictable Chicago Black Hawks.

In handing the Hawks a 5-2 pasting Tuesday night, Canadiens were as spectacularly good as the Hawks were miserably lethargic.

Whatever the explanation, Canadiens evened the Stanley Cup semi-final 2-2 on games by putting on one of the most sustained shooting displays probably ever seen in a cup series.

They outshot the Hawks 60-21, and in the Montreal harvest Dickie Moore and Billy Hicke scored two apiece and Phil Goyette counted the other.

Dollard St. Laurent and Stan Mikita scored in a Chicago cause that sparkled briefly here and there with proficient forechecking. But it was doomed almost from the start simply because the Hawks were widely outskated by an aroused team that knew a loss might be the crusher.

The series shifts to Montreal for the fifth game Saturday and the teams play back in Chicago next Tuesday.

After losing 2-1 in Sunday's long overtime game, Canadiens surprisingly didn't miss their scoring ace, Bernie Geoffrion, who has a damaged knee.

There was fire power on every Montreal forward line Tuesday night, and Chicago goalie Glenn Hall was given no respite in handling almost a shot a minute. It is to the Chicago goalie's credit that the Montreal margin wasn't wider.

Hawks pulled even once with the hustling Montrealers, 1-1 early in the first period, but began to wobble from there on.

Montreal goalie Jacques Plante had a comparatively easy time. He had only four shots to handle in the first period while Hall was bombarded with 24.

There was one big display of fisticuffs and the stadium crowd of 16,666 — present capacity for a hockey game—loved it. Little Marcel Bonin of Montreal matched muscles with big Elmer Moose Vasko of Chicago in the second period.

Stitches Needed to Mend Tab Trio

Referee Eddie Powers assessed Bonin a major penalty and two 10-minute misconduct penalties. Vasko was given a major and one misconduct.

Three Montreal players came out of the tussle with cuts. Hicke needed five stitches on his forehead as the result of a check by Chicago's Ken Wharram. Claude Provost and Doug Harvey each had a couple of stitches taken—Provost over the eye and Harvey on the forehead.

There were broad grins and grim satisfaction in Canadiens' dressing room after they had overpowered Chicago.

"I'm happy with the play of all the boys tonight," said coach Toe Blake.

"The team had better scoring chances tonight and didn't miss on many, but the series is still far from over and we can expect plenty of trouble from the Hawks even back home."

Blake, asked what he thought of the officiating of Powers, said:

"After what happened the other night, I'd say this was the best officiating I've ever seen in my life."

The crack was in reference to the $2,000 fine plastered on Blake for striking referee Dalton McArthur after Sunday's long overtime game.

Coach Rudy Pilous of the Hawks, however, had a beef about referee Powers' work.

"Doug Harvey was interfering all night and getting away with it. And we had nine penalties to Montreal's six.

"Powers could have done a much better job. It wasn't that tough a game to handle. But I'm not going to do anything about Powers because I haven't $2,000 to throw away."

Vic High Aces Defend Crown

Paddles will be drumming out a fast tune Thursday night when the cream of the area's junior table tennis players take over for the annual inter-high school tournament.

Favored for a repeat victory is the Victoria High four-player squad headed by British Columbia junior champion Ricky Pye. Other Vic High paddlers are Mike Shanks, Gary Restell and Norman Leong.

Vic High's main competition is expected to come from a Mount Douglas foursome led by Rick Gough, a former British Columbia junior champ.

Play starts at 6 p.m. at 1318 Broad Street, headquarters of the Victoria Table Tennis Association, which will hold a handicap tournament following the inter-high meet.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

ST. PETERSBURG—It is possible for a man to be a spectacular leader in war and a poor one in sports. An officer can order men to stand and die. The athlete decides how far he wants to go. Soldiers may be executed for disobedience in combat. A mutinous player can demand that he be traded to another club. Officers deal with troops as squads and companies. The manager has to handle his people one at a time. And there is no book to go by.

This Ralph Houk, the new manager of the Yankees, who was a major twice-decorated for bravery in a recon outfit, understands. He adjusted to it the day they gave him his discharge. He never wears his major's leaves on his baseball uniform.

He appears secure, but he is under tremendous pressure. He follows Casey Stengel, who won 10 pennants in 12 years and is regarded as one of the greatest of managers. But Stengel's reputation will not influence Houk.

* * *

Houk makes it clear he realizes you can't put on another man's character as if it were a sports jacket. He isn't going to tussle with Stengel's fame and try to emulate him. He wants to be judged as the guy who manages the Yankees in '61, not a parody of departed greatness. He is another man doing the job in a different way because no two men are alike.

* * *

He will try to play the game nine men a side and doesn't intend to use multiple substitutions which is a system Stengel made popular in the big leagues.

"If I had the men," he said, "I'd do it. But I don't have depth. I'm not against the platoons. The thing I am against is moving three men to different positions in a given game. Unless it's a must, I don't intend to use different men at different positions from day to day."

He has said before and repeated it again that he will argue with ball players in the secrecy of a locked office. He is very careful not to mention that Stengel frequently ridiculed his people publicly.

"I'm on the players' side," he said. "I want them to know this. They must do the things that are good for the club as a whole. If ball players know a manager is on their side but won't put up with any foolishness, they will play ball for you."

No Two Men Are Alike, He Says

"The manager's main problem is the handling of men," he said. "One day you bunt. The next day you hit away. You take 10 great managers and give them 10 situations. Five will say bunt and five will say hit. You must know whose butt to kick, and what one you must pat. Twenty-five men on a squad aren't all alike. You needle one guy, and he'll play for you. Needle the next guy and you'll ruin him. I intend to handle them all differently, because they are different."

The conversation, of course, drifted to Stengel.

"I never went after his job," he said. "He was a great manager. No one is like the other fellow. I have tried to be myself. I'm Ralph Houk. He's Casey Stengel."

This is the way it has to be. There have been too many guys who tried to be John McGraw and a lot of them missed out because they wanted to be Leo Durocher.

* * *

He learned much working as a coach for Stengel but he also holds on to his own theories of the game.

"Casey was always kind to me," he said. "He gave me the answer when I asked questions. We talked quite a bit. I thought a lot of him."

* * *

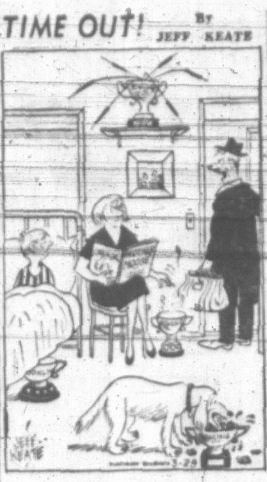
He hasn't enough pitching. But he hesitates to trade one of his four catchers because they are his pinch-hitters and he intends to keep them all unless the pitching flops. So desperate are clubs for catchers Houk is positive he can negotiate just as profitably after the season begins and the defects of his club are exposed.

"What about the pressure? he was asked.

"I'm out to win," he said. "That's all I can do. Truthfully, I don't feel any pressure."

He realizes the Yankee partisans will forgive him for taking Stengel's job if his team wins. If it goes bad, they will blame him alone. This is the way baseball buffs are. But this I know: Ralph Houk will play his own hand. He's that kind of a guy.

TIME OUT! By JEFF KEATE



"Admit it! You resent my being an ace bowler, don't you!"

Hutch's Theory Isn't Backed By the Experts

By LEO H. PETERSEN

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Manager Freddie Hutchinson thinks his Cincinnati Reds finally have overcome the pitching weakness that has plagued them over the years and that they have an outside chance of winning the 1961 National League pennant.

He hasn't found many baseball experts who agree with him, however, especially in view of the fact that the Reds lost eight of their first nine spring exhibition games.

Last year the Reds finished sixth, lacking both the pitching, which is an old problem, and also the power hitting which they usually have.

They tried to correct those weaknesses but in doing so left a gaping hole in the infield. Unless they make a deal, they figure to be troubled a either shortstop or second base.

Their regular shortstop for the last 10 years, Roy McMillan, is gone and so is second-baseman Billy Martin. Among the players the Reds received in trades were Gene Freese, who should help the attack but is far from a defensive bulwark at third base, and pitcher Joey Jay, whom Hutchinson is counting upon as a regular starter.

Those two players along with Gordon Coleman, Wally Post, Bill Henry, Jay Hook and Jim O'Toole hold the key to how far the Reds will go this season. Solution of the infield problem also will be a major factor.

KASKO CAPABLE

Freese will be at third and Coleman, who hit .271 in 66 games for the Reds after being brought up from Seattle last year, at first. Coleman has to make it at first or Hutchinson's outfield plans will be upset. For if Coleman fails, it means that Frank Robinson will have to leave his left field to return to first. Robinson would prefer to play left and that's where Hutchinson wants him to perform.

Eddie Kasko will be at either short or second. Whichever position he plays will be in good hands, but it leaves a big void at the other.

Chico Cardenas, who hit .266 in 48 games with the Reds after batting .288 at Jersey City, will decide which position Kasko will play. If he makes it at short, Kasko will be at second. If not, then Elio Chacon, who hit only .181 with the Reds and .266 at Jersey City last year, or rookie Jim Baumer, a .293 hitter at Salt Lake City in 1960, will battle it out for the second base job.

OUTFIELD SET

The outfield is set if Coleman makes it at first. In the garden with Robinson will be Vada Pinson in centre and either Post or Gus Bell in right.

Ed Bailey will be the No. 1 catcher again with Hal Bevan and Jerry Zimmerman, both of whom were with Seattle last season, behind him.

Holiday Tourneys To Fill Fairways

Almost everybody wants to play golf.

That's about the only assumption that can be made as record entries continue to be made in local tournaments.

Hard on the heels of the biggest-ever entry in last Sunday's qualifying round for the Times Vancouver Island Open comes Uplands' annual Good Friday four-ball meet.

Another record entry.

A total of 210 players are due to tee off at Uplands, Friday morning, in the best-ball event. Net scores are based on three-quarters of the low handicap.

The ladies, too, refuse to stick to their knitting. A total of 27 pairings are entered in a similar tournament at Gorge Vale.

Palmer Grabs Pro-Am Purse

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer and Doug Sanders each netted $900 as they tied for individual honors in the Seminole pro-am golf tournament Tuesday, but Palmer picked up another $800 as he and his amateur teammate edged the field by a stroke.

In the professional division, Sanders fired a six-under-par 66 over the 6,890-yard Seminole course. Palmer matched Sanders' two-day total 138 as he came in with a 67 Tuesday.

Palmer teamed up with Gay F. Kammer of Grosse Point, Mich. They finished with a 65-61—126. The second-place team was Billy Casper and Capt. F. S. Holmes, with 62-65—127.

SOLUTION MONDAY

ask Andy
HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Judith Thayer, age 14, of Duxbury, Mass., for her question:

What use is an elephant's trunk?

Jumbo's trunk rates as one of the seven wonders of the animal world. Actually, it is not a trunk in the sense of a tree trunk, nor is it any part of the trunk of his body. The name arose from a mistake. It was confused with the French word trompe, which means trumpet or nose. The elephant's long snaky trunk is really an extension of his nose and upper lip. And without it, he would be lost.

The big fellow is a vegetarian and in the wild he needs about a quarter ton of green salad every day of his life. He is far too tall and bulky to bend down and gather these greens from the ground. Nor can he reach up to pluck foliage from the tall boughs. For these jobs, he uses his wonderful trunk.

The tip of the trunk has one or two lobes that act as fingers. It is a prehensile, or grasping, trunk and one of its main duties is to gather bunches of food. With each bunch, it curves down and under to stuff the food into Jumbo's big mouth. Some people think that the elephant drinks through his trunk, but this is not so. He sucks up water through the trunk and when he gets a trunk full, he squirts the drink into his mouth.

This trick is useful when Jumbo finds himself in a muddy stream, for the big fellow dearly loves a mud bath. He sucks up a trunk full of soupy-mud and swings the trunk around to squirt it over his head, his back or wherever he needs a mud plaster. Sometimes he uses the trunk to douse himself with dust, for he also enjoys a dust bath. And sometimes he uses the same trick to give himself a bath of just plain water.

It is estimated that there are 40,000 different muscles in the mighty trunk. Though the skin on the outer side is tough and strong, on the under side it is soft and sensitive.

Jumbo is always careful to protect the tender underside and sometimes he goes around with the trunk curved under.

He is more often seen walking along with his great trunk swinging gently from side to side. Remember, his trunk is part of his nose and a nose is the organ of smell. Jumbo's monstrous nose has a sense of smell in keeping with its size. This is lucky for the elephant who has poor eyesight and, even with those big ears, his hearing is far from good. The sense of smell and touch in his wonderful trunk makes up for these shortcomings. He uses it to test the wind and scent friends or enemies, to test the ground and feel out objects in his path.

As you would expect, the big, well-exercised trunk is strong. It can be used to lift almost a ton high above the ground. When provoked, an elephant has been known to use his trunk to lift a man and hurl him 40 feet. Yet the trunk is also used to show af*fection.* Mrs. Jumbo uses her trunk softly to stroke and pet her bulky baby.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

ROME—It's pleasant to be back here sitting in the sun and eating the doughnuts at Doney's. . . . Riding in a horse-drawn carriage back from St. Peter's . . . throwing three coins in the fountain like all the other tourists. . . . and overhearing a woman say, "I don't care what they say: Texas has many things that Rome hasn't!"

Anita Ekberg—bless her wonderful figure—is due in the U.S. shortly to discuss a movie with Billy Wilder. She's made five films in the last year, which doesn't give her much time for her true love, actor Franco Silva. . . . Maurice Chevalier did an impersonation of singers impersonating Maurice Chevalier, and was so good that columnist Sam Steinman asked him how he does it. "Because," he said, "when I learned to sing, I learned to sing not with my throat, but with my heart."

We saw Mary Pickford—false eyelashes and all—at Rome's Lau. It was like old home week with my Beautiful Wife and Buddy Rogers talk*ing to each other* about their respective childhoods in Kansas City—and undoubtedly promising each other not to tell anybody their true ages. Mary and Buddy are going on a safari in Kenya, though I hear Bob Ruark warned Mary not to, because he fears more Mau Mau raids.

Remembered suddenly from our trip to Tel Aviv: One night, well-to-do Houstonian Murlin Christie had the phone operators and bellboys upset. "You phone for taxi?" they said. "No, I phone for Texas!" he exclaimed.

Stewart Granger and Pier Angeli, stars of Joe Levine's $4,000,000 "Sodom and Gomorrah," are at the no-speaking stage—and are off to Morocco for location shooting, where it won't get any better. . . Henry Ringling North, the Ringling Circus' "vice-president in charge of Italy," says he's amused by his brother John Ringling North's practice of carrying his own can of decaffeined coffee to restaurants and preparing it himself. It's not that John's afraid coffee'll keep him awake—because he usually goes to bed about 9 a.m.

Beautiful actress Dawn Addams, who's in an annulment dispute with Prince Vittorio Massimo, trying to get custody of her son Stefano, seven, has solved it — temporarily — by moving to Rome for six months a year — and living next door to her son and husband.

Irving R. Levine, NBC's Mediterranean director, says: "People say it's strange the Italian auto drivers don't kill a lot of people. Well, they do."

The Midnight Earl—Frank Sinatra will be the guest of the President of Mexico, in Mexico City, April 25. . . . St. Malachy's needed another choir boy recently so ex-choir boy Jack Haley took over. . . . George Jessel's former girl friend, model Karen Hansen, wed Palm Springs realtor Michael Vara.

A biography of Liz Taylor is being rushed into print. . . .

Earl's Pearls: Someone described a very wealthy ticket broker: "He hasn't spent his 'South Pacific' money yet."

Today's Best Laugh: Phyllis Diller explains why she smiles so often: "My teeth are all I've got that don't have wrinkles."

Wish I'd Said That: Colleges will be so crowded this fall that even football players may have a tough time getting in.

Mimi Hines, of Ford and Hines, told a ringside heckler, Hi, doc! Hope you don't mind me calling you doc, but I've been watching you try to operate all night." That's earl, brother.

CANADIAN WOMEN WORRIED BY SERIOUS COMPLEXION PROBLEMS

More than two-thirds of Canadian women have been found to suffer from skin dryout—a condition caused by harsh weather, over-heated rooms, low-fat diets, etc. Robbed of natural oils and moisture, the skin toughens; little lines and crow's feet appear. If this is your problem, you need POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, starts repair work in just 10 minutes! Allantoin floats off lifeless surface skin cells, speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to parched tissues far below. Almost overnight, your complexion takes on new tone, looks smoother, softer, younger. Get POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM . . . in jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

B.C. Hydro Seeks Licence For Power Export to U.S.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Power Commission applied Tuesday for a licence to export surplus interruptible power to the United States for a five-year period during a National Energy Board hearing here.

The government-owned utility opposed a similar application made by the B.C. Electric Monday to export to the Northwest Power Pool for an eight-year period on the grounds that it might conflict with any arrangements made for the U.S.-Canadian development of the Columbia River power project.

The hearings were completed Tuesday.

J. S. Wilson, appearing for B.C. Hydro, told the board the five-year term is a period "for which planning is considered to be reasonably firm."

He said B.C. Hydro already holds an amended licence to export surplus interruptible power. The licence expires at the end of the year.

"B.C. Hydro has "at this date" no formal contracts or agreements covering the proposed export of power, or related agreements for the international interchange or import of power, he said.

However, the utility has negotiated an agreement with the Bonneville Power Administration for the exchange of surplus energy and for emergency relief.

The agreement with BPA depends on the negotiation of a "wheeling" agreement between B.C. Hydro and B.C. Electric, Mr. Wilson said. Wheeling involves the use of B.C. Electric's facilities by B.C. Hydro.

Mr. Wilson said that B.C. Hydro imported surplus energy from or through the BPA system on two occasions in 1957 in order to relieve an energy shortage.

He said the utility does not propose to export surplus interruptible power to a single customer, but to the BPA, the major marketing agency serving consumers in the Pacific Northwest.

The proposed export will not adversely affect the supply of energy available for Canadian requirements, Mr. Wilson said.

The board reserved decision on the Hydro and B.C. Electric application.

John Gilliland Wins $7,500 Scholarship

Victoria student John Michael Gilliland has continued his winning ways in Vancouver's academic fields.

He was awarded a $7,500 fellowship by Imperial Oil Ltd. to cover a three year period leading to a doctorate degree in science, it was announced Tuesday.

Mr. Gilliland is a post-graduate science student at the University of B.C., where he previously won an $1,800 National Research Council scholarship for further study after he received his B.Sc degree.

Son of Prof. and Mrs. H. C. Gilliland, 840 Richmond, he won numerous awards while attending Victoria High School and Victoria College. Among these was the Governor-General's Silver Medal in 1956 for highest junior matriculation standing in B.C.

Israel Election Set

JERUSALEM (Reuters) — The Israeli Knesset (parliament) approved a bill Tuesday dissolving itself and setting August 15 for new elections.

Like Bids 'Economic Collusion'

TORONTO (CP)—A record of identical quotations on electrical equipment required by the Kingston Public Utilities Commission provides "convincing evidence" of economic collusion through price-fixing by all, or at least most, of the companies making bids, CCF leader Donald MacDonald of Ontario charged Tuesday.

He said in the legislature the Kingston PUC had made a list of all recent bids and found as many as nine companies made the same bids for equipment.

"Surely this is a piece of colossal effrontery," he said. "These companies are simply thumbing their noses at the governments and everybody else involved. They consider themselves above the law."

Although conceding the primary responsibility for price-fixing rested with the federal government, he said Attorney-General Kelso Roberts should take an interest in it.

He said other councils or public utilities periodically complained of too many identical bids coming out of sealed tenders.

Hunters Destroy Oryx

LONDON (Reuters)—Hunters armed with machine-guns and rifles have virtually wiped out the world's last wild herd of the Arabian oryx, a straight-horned antelope found on the southern Araba desert, according to reports received here Tuesday. Lt.-Col. C. L. Biyle, secretary of the Fauna Preservation Society, reported at least 28 of the graceful animals were shot in the Rub Al Khali desert of the Aden protectorate.

Social Credit 'Wing' Of Conservative Party?

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—A CCF filibuster against a bill to incorporate an American-controlled pipeline company resumed Tuesday in the Commons, featured by a CCF MP's charge that the bill is being pushed by "the Social Credit wing of the Conservative Party."

It was the eighth time that the bill to incorporate the Aurora Pipeline Company had been before the House. On each occasion the eight-man CCF-New Party Parliamentary group has attacked it as a "sellout" of Canadian resources to Americans.

The company seeks to build a pipeline to export Alberta petroleum byproducts to the United States.

Tuesday the bill came up again in continued clause-by-clause study preceding third reading. No progress was made and it was put aside until after the Easter recess.

Murdo Martin (CCF—Timmins) said supporters of the bill had tried to create the impression that everybody in Alberta is behind the company. There were good indications that this was not true.

'Put Price-Fixers in Jail'—CCFer

Officers of Canadian companies found guilty of prices fixing should be given automatic jail terms, a CCF MP suggested.

Erhart Regier (CCF — Burnaby-Coquitlam) said the recent jailing of high officials of United States electrical companies who had been convicted of price-fixing gave the American people "new faith in the principles of free enterprise."

Mr. Regier said Prime Minister Diefenbaker had advocated jail terms for price-fixing offences in a speech from the opposition side of the Commons several years ago.

* * *

The biggest blowup Tuesday came when CCF Leader Argue objected to a $740,000 payment for NATO military and maintenance costs. Canada should pull out of NATO entirely, he said.

Mr. Argue introduced a motion calling for reduction of the payment to $1—a technical move which involves censure of the government. It was scheduled to come to a vote today.

The CCF motion met with strong condemnation from Mr. Fleming and Opposition Leader Pearson, the Liberal leader, attacking the CCF move as "humiliating and disastrous" for Canada.

* * *

Senator Thomas Crerar (L—Manitoba) warned the government that its accelerating spending plans are leading Canada into a serious state of affairs.

"There is no reason at all why we should not work out of this plight if only our public men would think less about garnering votes and thought more of the real welfare of this country," he said.

* * *

Justice Minister Fulton said consideration will be given to allowing Irene Rebrin, Slavonic lecturer at the University of British Columbia, to remain in Canada while she has civil court actions pending.

The Supreme Court of Canada Monday turned down Miss Rebrin's appeal against deportation order.

Liberal MP Paul Hellyer, a Toronto contractor, charged that the government is subsidizing the chartered banks and perhaps "lining the pockets of its friends" by advertising the banks' home improvement loans.

SIR CHARLES DARWIN . . . earth crowded

'People' Worse Threat Than A-Bomb

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sir Charles Darwin, eminent British mathematical physicist, said Tuesday there is more chance of the human race being crowded off the earth than being wiped out by an atomic bomb.

The 73-year-old grandson of famed English naturalist Charles Darwin said in an interview the world's population is increasing at the rate of 500,000,000 a year. In less than 1,000 years, he said, there will be no standing room left on earth.

"Over-population is a greater menace than the atomic bomb."

The present population will double itself to more than 5,000,000,000 in 40 years. The world would have enough space and food to support this number "but after that things will really get serious."

Full Independence Due Tanganyika in December

DAR ES SALAAM (AP)—Britain has agreed to grant full independence to Tanganyika next December 28, Colonial Secretary Iain Macleod announced here today.

The date of independence for the territory's 9,000,000 people was agreed in talks here during the last three days between Macleod and local political leaders.

A communique issued at the end of the constitutional talks said Tanganyika would apply for membership in the Commonwealth.

The communique said full independence would be preceded by "full international self-government" beginning on May 1 this year. Britain will introduce a resolution before the United Nations, which inherited trusteeship of the territory from the League of Nations, proposing the end of the trusteeship.

The chief African architect of Tanganyika's progress toward independence is Julius Nyerere, moderate leader of the powerful African National Union.

SWEEPSTAKE 'ALSO RAN'

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Legislature overwhelmingly voted down Tuesday the idea of a provincially-operated sweepstakes.

The only members voting for a motion calling for the setting up of a government lottery to finance hospital costs were the three members who had spoken in favor of the resolution since its introduction March 14. Two of these, were Progressive Conservative government members, the other a Liberal-Progressive.

LOW 44, HIGH 49.9

Gas Price Varies At Victoria Pumps

A check of Victoria and district service stations today showed considerable variation in gasoline prices following the three-cent increase in the provincial gasoline tax.

In some cases the price increase for premium grade fuels was limited by pump computers which wouldn't go higher than 49.9 cents per gallon, although several operators said their premium price would be 50 cents or more when the computers could be changed.

A number of stations increased prices by the exact amount of the tax increase and were selling premium grades for 48.9 cents and regular grades for 44.9 cents.

SOME AT OLD PRICE

Some of the other prices encountered in the Victoria district for regular and premium gas, respectively, were: 44 and 49.5 cents, 45.5 and 49.5, 44.9 and 49.9, 45.9 and 49.9, 44.9 and 49.6.

A limited number, including a downtown station which took delivery of 2,000 gallons of gas just before the tax increase came into effect, were still selling at their previous prices. A few boosted prices ahead of deliveries of higher-tax gas and took the extra profit.

Most operators are working on a gross profit of between 18 and 20 per cent on gasoline sales.

TANK PRICE UP 3%

The oil companies' "tank wagon" prices for gasoline have gone up by exactly the amount of the three-cent tax increase and are now 36.3 cents for regula. and 41.3 cents for premium.

Greater Vancouver is the only area in B.C. where the price increase was a standard three cents. In the Vancouver area many service stations are owned by the oil companies and operators are paid a straight commission on sales.

In other parts of the province stations are owned by operators who set their own prices.

Peking Collapse Certain—Chiang

TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI)—President Chiang Kei-shek today criticized the "Two China" policy and said it does not recognize the fact that the Chinese Communist regime is bound to collapse.

Chiang, in a Youth Day message, said "nothing can be more irrational of human rights" than the policy of recognizing both his Nationalist regime and the Chinese government in Peking.

(In Bangkok, where the SEATO powers are meeting, it was learned that the Kennedy administration has not changed and does not plan to change its policy toward supporting the Nationalist government.)

Chiang said some people in non-Communist countries have "not only failed to realize that the Communist Chinese regime is bound to collapse and it is time to take the initiative . . . But they also try to appease the Communists."

"This is tantamount to inviting wolves into one's room so that the beasts can swallow one," he added.

Chiang said the Chinese people under Communist rule "used to passively hope for the best, but now are actively engaged in anti-Communist activities, such as burning warehouses, killing Communist cadres, and destroying communes."

He said the Communists themselves admit an average of 250 incidents against their rule are taking place every day on the mainland.

"The atrocities of such a tyranny cannot last long," he added.

'FEED HIM TO THE SHARKS'

Kidnapper Gets Life

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Stephen Leslie Bradley was sentenced today to life imprisonment for the kidnap-murder of eight-year-old Graeme Thorne last July.

The 34-year-old former Hungarian mechanic was given the maximum sentence under the state laws of New South Wales, where there is no death penalty.

The jury brought in its verdict on the eighth day of the trial, one of the most publicized in Australian history. It deliberated for three hours and 20 minutes.

Graeme was kidnapped while on his way to school last July, shortly after his father had won £100,000 ($224,000) in a lottery. His body, wrapped in a rug, was found six weeks later in a vacant lot in a Sydney suburb.

Bradley was arrested on a liner in Colombo, Ceylon, in October.

Scuffling and shouting broke out at the back of the courtroom after the judge pronounced sentence.

Court officials held a number of women back as four policemen hustled Bradley out of sight through a trap door to the cells below.

Women shouted "Hooray," "Good on you" and "Feed him to the sharks" after the jury found Bradley guilty.

'The Jewish Solution'—A Horror Story

(Adapted from "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," published by Simon and Schuster, and copyrighted by William L. Shirer, 1960.)

Chapter 10

No comprehensive blueprint for the New Order was ever drawn up, but it is clear from the captured documents and from what took place that Hitler knew very well what he wanted it to be: a Nazi-ruled Europe whose resources would be exploited for the profit of Germany, whose people would be made slaves of the German master race and whose "undesirable elements"—above all, the Jews, but also many Slavs in the East, especially the intelligentsia among them—would be exterminated.

But it was in the plunder of human lives that the mercifully short-lived New Order will be longest remembered. Here Nazi degradation sank to a level seldom experienced by man in all his time on earth.

Millions Murdered

Millions of decent, innocent men and women were driven into forced labor, millions more tortured and tormented in the concentration camps and millions more still, of whom there were four and a half million Jews alone, were massacred in cold blood or deliberately starved to death and their remains—in order to remove the traces—burned.

This incredible story of horror would be unbelievable were it not fully documented and testified to by the perpetrators themselves.

One fine June day of 1946 at Nuremberg three members of the American prosecution staff were interrogating S.S. Obergruppenfuehrer Oswald Pohl, who, among other things, had been in charge of work projects for the inmates of the Nazi concentration camps.

In answer to one question Pohl used a term which the Nuremberg prosecution, busy for months in poring over millions of words from the captured documents, had begun to become familiar.

A certain colleague by the name of Hoess had, Pohl said, been employed by Himmler "in the final solution of the Jewish question."

"And what was that?" Pohl was asked.

"The extermination of Jewry," he answered.

The expression crept with increasing frequency into the vocabulary and the files of the leading Nazis as the war progressed, its seeming innocence apparently sparing these men the pain of reminding one another what it meant and perhaps too, they may have thought, furnishing a certain cover for their guilt should the incriminating papers ever come to light.

Never on Paper

What became known in high Nazi circles as the "Fuehrer Order on the Final Solution" apparently was never committed to paper—at least no copy of it has yet been unearthed in the captured Nazi documents.

All the evidence shows that it was most probably given verbally to Goering, Himmler and Heydrich, who passed it down during the summer and fall of 1941. A number of witnesses testified at Nuremberg that they had "heard" of it but none admitted ever seeing it.

All the 30-odd principal Nazi concentration camps were death camps and millions of tortured, starved inmates perished in them.

But it was the extermination camps, the Vernichtungslager, where most progress was made toward the "final solution." The greatest and most renowned of these were Auschwitz, whose four huge gas chambers and adjoining crematoria gave it a capacity for death and burial far beyond that of the others—Treblinka, Belsec, Sibibor and Chelmno, all in Poland.

Quite a Rivalry

For a time there was quite a bit of rivalry among the S.S. leaders as to which was the most efficient gas to speed the Jews to their death.

Speed was an important factor, especially at Auschwitz, where toward the end the camp was setting new records by gassing 6,000 victims a day.

One of the camp's commanders for a period was Rudolf Hoess, an ex-convict once found guilty of murder, who deposed at Nuremberg on the superiority of the gas he employed.

"The 'Final Solution' of the Jewish question meant the complete extermination of all Jews in Europe. I was ordered to establish extermination facilities at Auschwitz in June, 1941. At that time there were already in the General Government of Poland three other extermination camps; Belzec, Treblinka and Wolzek . . .

"I visited Treblinka to find out how they carried out their extermination. The camp commandant told me he had liquidated 80,000 in half a year. He was principally concerned with liquidating all the Jews from the Warsaw ghetto.

"He used monoxide gas and I did not think that his methods were very efficient. So when I set up the extermination building at Auschwitz, I used Zyklon B, which was a crystallized prussic acid which we dropped into the death chamber from a small opening.

It took from three to 15 minutes to kill the people in the death chamber, depending upon climatic conditions.

'Screaming Stopped'

"We knew when the people were dead because their screaming stopped. We usually waited about a half hour before we opened the doors and removed the bodies. After the bodies were removed our special commandos took off the rings and extracted the gold from the teeth of the corpses.

"Another improvement we made over Treblinka was that we built our gas chambers to accommodate 2,000 people at one time, whereas at Treblinka their 10 gas chambers only accommodated 200 people each."

The gas chambers themselves and the adjoining crematoria, viewed from a short distance, were not sinister-looking places at all; it was impossible to make them out for what they were.

Over them were well-kept lawns with flower borders; the signs at the entrances merely said BATHS.

Died to Music

The unsuspecting Jews thought they were simply being taken to the baths for the delousing which was customary at all camps. And taken to the accompaniment of sweet music!

For there was light music. An orchestra of "young and pretty girls all dressed in white blouses and navy-blue skirts," as one survivor remembered, had been formed among the inmates. While the selection was being made for the gas chambers this unique musical ensemble played gay tunes from "The Merry Widow" and "Tales of Hoffmann."

To such music, recalling as it did happier and more frivolous times, the men, women and children were led into the "bath houses," where they were told to undress preparatory to taking a "shower."

Sometimes they were even given towels. Once they were inside the "shower-room"—and perhaps this was the first moment that they may have suspected something was amiss, for as many as 2,000 of them were packed into the chamber like sardines, making it difficult to take a bath—the massive door was slid shut, locked and hermetically sealed.

Up above where the well-groomed lawn and flower beds almost concealed the mushroom-shaped lids of vents that ran up from the hall of death, orderlies stood ready to drop into them the amethyst-blue crystals of hydrogen cyanide, or Zyklon B, which originally had been commercially manufactured as a strong disinfectant and for which Herr Hoess had with so much pride found a new use.

They Watched It

Through heavy-glass portholes the executioners could watch what happened. The naked prisoners below would be looking up at the showers from which no water spouted or perhaps at the floor wondering why there were no drains. It took some moments for the gas to have much effect.

But soon the inmates became aware that it was issuing from the perforations in the vents. It was then that they usually panicked, crowding away from the pipes and finally stampeding toward the huge metal door where "they piled up in one blue clammy blood-spattered pyramid, clawing and mauling each other even in death."

There had been, the records show, some lively competition among German businessmen to procure orders for building these death and disposal contraptions and for furnishing the lethal blue crystals.

Thus the Didier Works of Berlin bid for orders for a furnace at a Nazi camp at Belgrade, claiming it could furnish a very superior product, correspondence which popped up at the Nuremberg trials discloses.

"For putting the bodies into the furnace, we suggest simply a metal fork moving on cylinders.

"Each furnace will have an oven measuring only 24 by 18 inches, as coffins will not be used. For transporting the corpses from the storage points to the furnaces we suggest using light carts on wheels, and we enclose diagrams of these drawn to scale."

The bodies were burned, but the gold fillings in the teeth remained and these were retrieved from the ashes as if they had not already been yanked out by special squads working over the clammy piles of corpses.

The gold was melted down and shipped along with other valuables snatched from the condemned Jews to the Reichsbank, where under a secret agreement between Himmler and the bank's president, Dr. Walter Funk, it was deposited to the credit of the SS in an account given the cover name of "Max Heiliger."

This prize booty from the extermination camps included, besides gold from dentures, gold watches, earrings, bracelets, rings, necklaces and even spectacles frames—for the Jews had been encouraged to bring all their valuables with them for the promised "resettlement." There were also great stocks of jewelry, especially diamonds and much silverware. And there were great wads of banknotes.

Bank Overwhelmed

The Reichsbank, in fact was overwhelmed by the "Max Heiliger" deposits.

When the Allies overran Germany they discovered in some abandoned salt mines, where the Nazis had hidden part of their records and booty, enough left over from the "Max Heiliger" account to fill three huge vaults in the Frankfurt branch of the Reichsbank.

Such were the beginnings of Hitler's New Order; such was the debut of the Nazi Gangster Empire in Europe.

Fortunately for mankind it was destroyed in its infancy—not by any revolt of the German people against such a reversion to barbarism but by the defeat of German arms and the consequent fall of the Third Reich.

NEXT: Hitler decides on his last great gamble.

Mac Mediates West Indies Differences

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters) — British Prime Minister Macmillan arrived here Tuesday from Trinidad for further talks on the projected independence of the West Indies Federation within the Commonwealth.

Macmillan already has made it clear he wants West Indian political leaders to resolve their differences before a May 31 London conference which will set an independence date.

At issue is the claim of Jamaica — which has more than half the federation's population of 3,000,000 and provides half its revenue—for a dominant voice in the independent federation.

The Jamaicans soon will hold a referendum on whether to remain in the federation after independence.

CONTROVERSIAL SAN FRANCISCO BISHOP SPEAKS OUT HERE

Virgin Birth 'An Image, Not Literal History'

By TONY DICKASON

Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, 47, former U.S. Supreme Court lawyer and one of the continent's leading theological thinkers, said here today he believed in the divinity of Christ, but not in the virgin birth.

He termed the latter concept an "image, not literal history."

Whether or not Jesus came through Joseph was not important, the bishop said. What was important was Jesus' incarnation, his divinity in humanity.

140 CHURCHES

Bishop Pike's see is San Francisco and he administers 140 churches with 50,000 communicants. He was appointed bishop in 1958 and previously was dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York City, the world's largest Anglican Church. It seats 10,000.

He is preaching at noon today and Thursday at Christ Church Cathedral in connection with Holy Week observances.

ACCUSED

Bishop Pike has been charged with a "heretical" outlook in matters of doctrine by a group of southern U.S. clergy.

But his belief is that today it does not make absolute sense to base Christian thought altogether on "the great philosophical fellows of the 4th century."

Of necessity, they were obliged to talk in visual concepts readily understood at that time.

UNWORRIED

Bishop Pike is not worried by criticism.

"I am within the limits of theological orthodoxy permitted under Anglican thought."

The forms the Christian world has used to enshrine truth are not the permanent thing. He said no particular form of observance is incompatible if it conveys the true meaning of belief in God.

On this point, he mentioned that the Gothic in architecture when originated was considered practically irreligious.

Today, there are contemporary-art forms in church structures, vestments, and other modern developments in the church.

"Simply because the idiom is modern, doesn't rule it out."

This, referring to his earlier remarks, also applied to more direct spiritual considerations.

"Maps become more and more adequate, but the terrain remains unchanged."

"BLASPHEMY"

He stated emphatically it is "blasphemy" to worship the form alone, losing sight of the reality, "God, the absolute."

Among worshippers, there is much confusion of this form with the fact, he said.

Thus a "jazz mass," recently presented and the centre of controversy, "is perfectly fine," if it has appeal to a specific group and leads to their spiritual betterment.

Audience participation in any form of service, said Bishop Pike, is essential to its preservation and appreciation. Popular audience participation shows on television were one instance of this.

On over-all church unity, he predicted it would be accomplished "bit by bit" rather than through some wonderful unique revelation of how it could be brought about.

"The foundation of broadened understanding is being built all the time."

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29, 1961—PAGE 17

'He Wanted an Apple So He Robbed Store'

Two Youths Jailed In Shooting Spree

Up to 21 months in jail will be spent by one of two teen-aged boys sentenced today to Oakalla jail young offenders' unit for a shooting, burglary and theft spree at Victoria shops.

Magistrate William Octler gave Rodney Leason, 18, of Rockland Avenue, 15 months definite and six months indeterminate, concurrent, on each of 13 charges of breaking and entering, and four of wilful damage.

Karl Sjoberg, 17, of 2251 Belmont, was sentenced to nine months definite and six months indeterminate on the same charges.

Mr. Ostler referred to the string of burglaries, thefts and store window shootings as "a shocking array of serious indictable offences.

'COLD, CALLOUS'

"It is very difficult to understand boys like you. All of these offences were committed with a cold, callous, contemptible disregard for the law."

Addressing Leason, Magistrate Ostler referred to a probation report, finding indication of cynicism:

"You broke into a dairy because you wanted a glass of milk; a grocery store because you wanted an apple.

"Finally you persuaded yourself you were pretty big stuff and any place presented a challenge."

DISREGARD

In reference to the shootings — which followed theft of rifles, shotgun and ammunition in several burglaries—Mr. Ostler said to Leason:

"You fired innumerable times from a great distance (at the shop windows) with complete disregard for the safety or lives of others.

"No doubt you were led along," he said to Sjoberg. "You fired only one shot, but you must be responsible, too."

He considered Leason's difficult family life without a father, lack of education, training and emotional problems, but noted Sjoberg had a previously good record and is of higher intelligence, "therefore there is less excuse for you."

DRIVERS' TROUBLES PILING UP

Edward Dick, of 1 Cooper Road, was fined a total of $275 or 29 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to charges in city police court following a two-mile chase in Victoria West and Esquimalt at 1.45 a.m. today.

Court was told he is already some $300 in arrears after getting time to pay previous fines, including one for impaired driving when his licence was suspended.

Magistrate William Ostler ordered payment of the new fines forthwith—or jail.

Dick was fined $150 for driving while suspended, $100 for careless driving and $25 for driving without current licence plates.

60-MPH CHASE

In addition, he is prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for two years.

Cons. Thomas Anthony said he saw Dick's car go through a stop sign at Springfield and Esquimalt, and followed it through a maze of short streets and intersections leading eventually back to Esquimalt Road at speeds up to 60 miles an hour, the police car's siren and red light going full blast.

DIRT ON THE DOORSTEP

Vaunted beauty of Victoria's Inner Harbor, which offers free mooring facilities to lure visiting yachtsmen, is fouled by filthy mass of oil and debris calculated to make the visitor reverse engines and steal away. Chamber of Commerce harbor and transportation group is urging city to stage immediate clean-up as summer cruising season starts early in April, followed by Swiftsure ocean race. This handful of evidence was gathered today alongside one of the mooring floats. (Times Photo.)

GAS LAMP CEREMONY THURSDAY

A 50-year-old gas street light from Britain will be lit Thursday at a ceremony on the Causeway by Ald. J. L. W. McLean, chairman of the city's street lighting committee.

Intended as a tourist attraction, it was to be erected today next to the Victoria publicity bureau building. B.C. Electric will provide the gas to keep the old lamp glimmering continually.

The lantern was donated to the city by lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid who brought it back from England after a visit there last year.

Besides providing another sentimental link with England, it will recreate the atmosphere of Victoria 100 years ago when the waterfront district was lit by gas lanterns, he said.

New Company Makes Resins For Plastics

Victoria will become the first manufacturing centre west of Ontario for polyester resins and other basic materials for the reinforced plastics industry, according to an announcement today from F. A. E. Manning, vice-president of British America Paint Co. Ltd., Victoria.

The Victoria-produced "Polychem" will be marketed as far east as Manitoba. The new company will have access to BA Paint warehouse facilities in Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon and Regina.

H. Edward Ranson, executive vice-president of Ault and Wiborg Co. of Canada Ltd., parent company of Chemical Oil, will be president of Multichem Products Ltd. and Mr. Manning will be vice-president.

NEW PLANNER HERE

'Still Time To Correct Urban Sprawl'

By JOHN MIKA

Wasteful and ugly urban sprawl has reached serious proportions in Greater Victoria but there still is time to correct much of the problem, the capital region's new planning head said today.

A. H. Roberts, 35, expressed the opinion in an interview during a familiarization visit here before he assumes his new post April 17.

Mr. Roberts, currently assistant director of planning for Burnaby, will succeed Brahm Wiesman who has held the senior planning post since the Capital Region Planning Board was established in 1954 by the provincial government and local municipalities. Mr. Wiesman moves to Vancouver as an assistant planning director for the mainland city.

TWO PROBLEMS

Mr. Roberts said even a casual drive from the airport to the city revealed urban sprawl and urban blight as the two big problems here.

"In some cities, urban sprawl has advanced to the point where you can only throw up your hands in despair.

"It's serious here, but fortunately not so bad as to prevent a great deal of improvement.

HEALTH TO HEART

"But we can't just be concerned with the newer developing areas, we must also do something to give health to the heart of the city and completion of the urban renewal program will have high priority," he said.

A Welshman, Mr. Roberts brings plenty of experience and qualifications to his new and "all-round challenging job."

He worked as a planning official in Britain, where he was trained before coming to Canada in 1953, where he joined the Ontario government planning department and later served 2½ years as a senior planner for the city of Toronto.

He took a year off to travel and study planning techniques in Japan, India and Europe before assuming his Burnaby post almost three years ago.

PADLOCK PROBLEM SOLVED

Two Pandora Avenue toddlers were returned by police to their home for the fifth time in two weeks early today after found wandering at Pandora and Blanshard in their pajamas.

Norman and Martin Gamble, 919½ Pandora, seem to enjoy their early gambolling but police—and their mother—are getting a little weary.

In an effort to stop them sneaking away while the rest of the family are in bed, the Gambles put a padlock on their apartment door.

Undeterred, the two and three-year-old youngsters today crept out their upper floor window, along a narrow ledge and down the fire escape.

WHAT IS SO RARE as a sansevieria in bloom? Another sansevieria in bloom, but it's extremely doubtful you could find one, in the opinion of H. V. O'Reilly, 2119 Oak Bay Avenue, owner of this 40-inch member of the cactus family. He's cultivated it for 10 years; this is the first time it has produced a flower, and Mr. O'Reilly, a plant fancier, says he's never heard of one blooming before. Plant is a native of Abyssinia, is found in southwestern United States. (Times Photo.)

Harbord 'Drafted' to Lead Community Chest Drive

By HAL JONES

Insurance executive Justin Harbord has been "drafted" to run this year's Community Chest campaign.

His appointment as campaign chairman for 1961 was announced Tuesday at the annual meeting of Greater Victoria Community Chest.

This is the second time Mr. Harbord has led the annual Red Feather drive although he told Chest officials he has only agreed to take on the job because of a lack of available leaders.

Mr. Harbord, who is now in California on vacation, was campaign chairman during the 1958 drive, when a record sum [illegible]

(Earlier this year, in response to an appeal by Mayor Percy Scurrah to "consider a matter of community importance," 30 local business leaders agreed to act as directors of the 1961 campaign. Several meetings have already been held, at which Mr. Harbord acted as co-ordinator and temporary chairman.)

"NOT SO GLOOMY"

Chest president Eric Mallett said Tuesday night: "Things are not so gloomy as everyone thinks.

"Last year the Chest did exceptionally well in view of the obstacles it faced. There seemed to be a stigma—I don't know why."

Mr. Mallett said Community Welfare Council should conduct a public relations job for every agency in the Chest.

"If this is accomplished we will be able to go out before the public to ask them for funds without having to explain why this or that agency is in the Chest," Mr. Mallett said.

Referring to the establishment of a Charitable Appeals Committee, the president said this is necessary if the Chest ever hopes to operate as a United Appeal and cut out a possible duplicating of efforts.

"We must make sure we are asking the public for money that is really needed," he said.

THREE REASONS

Bernard Van Aggelen, last year's campaign chairman, said there were three reasons the $350,000 goal was not reached:

A number of capital appeals to the public were held before the Chest's drive;

[illegible] paign personnel were not appointed until a late stage of planning had been reached;

The goal was 20 per cent higher than the previous year's.

Mr. Van Aggelen said the failure couldn't be blamed on the ordinary residents or working people of Victoria—many of them contributed to the fund though they could ill afford it.

"It's my opinion that it was the people who could give that didn't," he said.

$304,318 ALLOCATED

Campaign revenue less expenses last year amounted to $277,109. Investments on funds realized a further $7,000 and the reserve fund provided an extra $20,207, making a total of $304,318 allocated to the 22 agencies.

Mr. Mallett said this year's drive will go before the public by the United Appeal despite the fact that Red Cross and the Salvation Army recently turned down a request to join the Chest.

'Rival' Aid For Odeon Operations

Famous Players (Canada) Corp., it was learned Wednesday, has agreed to supervise Victoria's Odeon Theatre on Yates Street for Odeon Theatres (Canada) Ltd.

It is understood the former theatrical rivals in Canada have come to an agreement to help one another cut down on operating costs in four Canadian areas, Halifax, Fort William, an unnamed town in Ontario and Victoria.

Famous Players will supervise Odeon Theatres in three of the four places mentioned. However, Odeon will supervise for Famous Players in Fort William.

Quite apart from this information but underlining the same theme was a statement Wednesday from Steve Allen, manager of Odeon's Plaza Theatre that closes its doors to business following Saturday's final showing.

Said Mr. Allen: "Our closing will result in a greater choice of better films being made available for the Odeon, Royal and Capitol theatres."

Easter Eggs Made Locally In Pastel-Toned Chocolate

By PENNY SAVER

Something new has been added to field of Easter eggs and novelties. Enterprising owner of candy store I was in this morning is importing Swiss milk chocolate in shades of pink, buttercup yellow, snowdrop white and peach. You have to see it to believe it!

Friendly owner admits to having spent 69 years in the trade, starting off as a young child in his parents' candy-making business in England.

Candy maker is also well aware of how a youngster's mind works. So, the "innards" of every beautifully decorated egg he makes with pastel-toned chocolate are filled with luscious English toffees. No risk of a let-down once the egg has been opened!

Even at starting price of 10 cents, youngsters will discover these "surprises" inside the eggs. They range in price from 10 cents through 39 cents, 69 cents, 79 cents, $1 and up to $2.50.

There's an absolute giant of an egg, priced at $10, that would make a perfect gift for the whole family. It's gay with violets, roses and other flowers, and inside you'll find two family-size boxes of chocolates.

Large chocolate baskets that stand about three inches high and are about eight inches in length are filled to the brim with excellent English chocolates. These sell at $2.

Unbelievably low priced are realistic chocolate nests that contain three colorful marshmallow eggs. These are priced at two for 15 cents.

Children will love dark chocolate eggs, made in England, that, when opened, have white cream centres complete with a yellow "yolk." These sold at two for 39 cents last year but new price is two for 29 cents.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped today give her a ring at EV 2-3131.

Don't Take It With You When You Travel

Most of us have wanderlust in the spring and start thinking of going some place. Canadians are great travelers at any time of year but when the weather is fine, they really go places.

If your favorite way to travel is by jet, just remember that you can't take everything with you. Thick tweeds, sturdy woolens, fluffy stoles and shoes for every dress will burden you unnecessarily. Rather, plan your wardrobe ahead and see that it includes lightweight cotton or wool knits, washable fashions in the synthetics and one or two pairs of shoes in basic colors.

Get color and variety from small accessories: gloves, jewelry, scarves. Similarly, you must leave those pretty bottles, jars and boxes of beauty preparations behind on your dressing table.

Equip yourself with tough, lightweight plastic bottles and jars. You can keep them all together in a zippered plastic bag or you can tuck them in corners of your suitcase. They will neither break nor spill.

Change Necessary

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A senior public school, named the Princess Anne School two months ago, will have to be renamed. The original name was given subject to the approval of Queen Elizabeth, who recently asked that the names of her children not be used until they come of age.

DEAR ABBY

Getting Too Much Experience!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My son is only 17 but he is big for his age. He is running around with a woman who is far too old for him. She has given him money, bought him gifts, and lets him drive her car. Is it any wonder he thinks she is wonderful?

Lately he has been spending more time with her than at home. At first he said she was only a friend, but now he has been talking marriage! I am against it because I don't want a daughter-in-law who is two years older than I am. Can you help me? I am going out of my mind. I have had no husband to help me raise this boy.

WORRIED WIDOW

DEAR WORRIED: You obviously have no control over your son, so perhaps a mature friend, relative or pastor will come to your rescue. The woman should be investigated. There could be legal as well as moral involvements, if the woman is guilty of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

DEAR ABBY: What does a girl need to have friends besides beauty, personality, brains, clothes, talent, poise and charm? COOKIE

DEAR COOKIE: "Humility."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a young man. Last night he went out with a married woman (she has two small children), and they went parking. He said he had to find out if he still loved her. He came back and told me he didn't love her any more and he loved me. He promised not to see her again, but he lies so much, how can I believe him? I would like to write to her husband (he is overseas) and tell him what his wife is doing to him, but I hate to hurt their children. Should I get in touch with this woman and tell her if she doesn't keep her hands off my fiance she will have to answer to me? Should I write to her husband? Or should I forget the whole thing? IN DEEP

DEAR IN: DON'T get in touch with the woman. DON'T write to her husband. But DO yourself a big favor and give your fiance the gate. He sounds like a shifty character and the worst kind of husband material.

Agnes Wilson Married In St. Andrew's Church

Now on a honeymoon trip by motor in the south are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charles Duke. They were married in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Saturday afternoon with Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiating.

Baskets of white and yellow stocks, daffodils and tulips decorated the church. Organist was C. C. Warren.

Bride is the former Agnes Holt Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. W. Wilson, 1810 Hollywood Crescent.

She wore a silk brocade two-piece street-length suit in driftwood tone, with lilac hat and accessories. Yellow roses were in her bouquet. Mr. Wilson gave his daughter in marriage.

Mrs. Mary Scott was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a figured silk dress in opal tones, a mauve hat and corsage of white chrysanthemums.

Robert Phipps was best man and ushering guests to their pews were Ian McRae and Walter Ogden.

Yellow roses were on the bride's table at a reception given in her parents' home. Pale yellow and white roses topped the wedding cake.

The bride's mother wore a green ensemble with corsage of pink roses. Hubert Bazett, Cherry Point, proposed the toast to his niece.

Leaving on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Duke topped her wedding ensemble with a matching coat. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Duke will make their home on Neill Street.

Easter Egg Cake Is a Fitting Finale for Gala Dinner

A delicious chocolate-mint Easter egg cake makes a decorative as well as a tasty wind-up for the Easter feast.

Easter is the time of hope and spring celebration. It calls for a perfect dinner planned to express all these things. So choose your menu carefully—something different, something fresh, something very special like this beautiful Easter egg cake.

EASTER EGG CAKE

Two packages chocolate mint cake mix, 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin, ½ cup sugar, ½ cup water, 1 pint fresh or frozen strawberries, 1 cup heavy cream (whipped), 2 packages fluffy white frosting mix.

Prepare cake mixes according to directions on package for mixing. Divide batter into two greased and floured 2½-quart oval-shaped casseroles. Bake in a preheated oven 325 degrees for 50 minutes, or until cake tests done.

Cool 10-15 minutes, then turn out on rack to cool. Cut each cake in half lengthwise to form four layers.

In a small saucepan combine the sugar and gelatin and stir in the water. Crush half the strawberries and add to the gelatin mixture. Bring to a boil and simmer for five minutes. Add remaining strawberries and cool until slightly thickened.

Fold into the whipped cream and chill until firm. Spread strawberry filling between the cake layers and sandwich the two layers together, bottom sides together, to form and resemble egg shape.

Prepare frosting mix according to directions on package. Frost and decorate the egg to resemble an Easter egg. The frosting may be divided and tinted any desired color. Serves 12.

(To make a smaller egg cake, use only one package of cake mix and one package of frosting mix. Prepare as for large cake.)

Yorkshire Neighbors Love Kathy

LONDON (UPI) — "She'll make him a good wife" is the verdict of Katharine Worsley's Yorkshire neighbors, pleased with the announcement that their "Kathy" is to marry the young Duke of Kent.

Eddie, the 25-year-old duke, may have rated as one of the gayest playboys in the land, but Katharine, the people in Yorkshire say, "always was a quiet one, not much interested in boys."

On the surface, no match seemed less likely. Katharine, brought up at her father's estate, Hovingham Hall, likes the country and classical music and never tried to be part of the gay "London set." And the duke is a city boy, with a passion for fast cars, jazz and gay parties that at one time often brought out the police and reporters.

Katharine is a commoner, and the duke is eighth in line to the British throne. Not so many centuries ago such a wedding would have been unthinkable. One of the Worsley antecedents, Oliver Cromwell, chopped off the head of one of the duke's ancestors, Charles I.

But Eddie's friends, finally released from the secrecy of the romance, now say that it has been the Yorkshire lass's influence that helped the duke settle down to his responsibilities as a member of the Royal Family.

Being "daughter of the manor" carried privileges with it. Hovingham Hall, built on the site of an old Roman villa, was often the scene of lively parties and music festivals at which Katharine played the perfect hostess. She made sure that all her guests enjoyed themselves, but seemed impartial to them all until a memorable costume ball in 1957.

That 1957 night Katharine, a Dresden shepherdess, danced every dance with a tall young "Tudor lord"—the new captain of the Royal Scot Greys just stationed at nearby Catterick base.

The captain was the Duke of Kent.

Know Rules of Good Interview Before Applying for a Position

NEW YORK (UPI)—Memo to job hunters:

Bone up on the rules of good interview conduct to enhance your chance of being hired.

The reason: Poor manners and personality characteristics head the list of factors causing rejections.

The authority who says so is Mary B. Dow, University of Michigan placement counsellor.

In a careers brief for the university's bureau of appointments and occupational information, she reported that a survey of 185 companies showed that personality factors such as arrogance, timidity, and conceit were rated above poor scholastic records or low grades.

Other factors in rejections: Low level of accomplishment, poor grasp of fundamentals, poor personal appearance, lack of enthusiasm, no evidence of initiative, lack of goals and objectives, poor planning, uncertainty and indecision.

You also put your chances on the skids by letting a prospective employer know you need a job terribly.

The prospect of being hired usually goes up in smoke also if you pull out a cigaret before the interviewer asks you to light up.

If you really want the job, Miss Dow suggested you study the organization's background, products and policies before the interview.

You also should know why you want to work for the firm and should be able to ask a few questions about training, programs, fringe benefits and related matters.

It's recommended also that you take an inventory of yourself and figure what you have to offer the firm.

Miss Dow said it's a good idea to be able to tell the story of yourself in about two minutes.

Other tips recommended by the expert:

—be equipped with a pen that works and notepaper. Use them only when the interviewer asks you to make note of some specific detail such as an address or name.

—stand until invited to sit. And sit in the chair designated.

—listen attentively when the interviewer tells you about the firm, its work and the job that is open.

—don't act as though you were window shopping.

—be poised but at the same time relaxed.

—don't overstress salary. Let the interviewer bring it up.

PS—Go alone to the interview, even if the interview was arranged by a friend or relative who is a buddy of the company president.

ANNE CHOSEN THIRD TIME

LONDON, (Reuters)—Princess Anne, 10-year-old daughter of the Queen, will be a bridesmaid for a third time on June 8 at the wedding of the Duke of Kent and Katharine Worsley in York Minster Cathedral, Kensington Palace announced today.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

A Retired Navy Man Contributes Exercise

The armed forces always have been acutely aware of the value of physical exercise. Usually, after even a short period with one of the branches of service, men come back to civilian life in much finer condition.

Lowman

I recently received an interesting letter from a commodore in the Navy who is now retired. He ha' just read a column in which I gave an abdominal exercise. If his letter does not kindle your enthusiasm about exercise, nothing will! He said:

"Today my maid brought me the enclosure (my column). After reading it I cut it out to send to you. Many years ago at Annapolis all men were required to do this exercise, not with one leg but with two. (This is the exercise in which you lie flat on your back, lift one leg in the air and slowly lower it.) We called it BOTH FEET and in the beginning we had to lift BOTH FEET 25 times, later 50 times.

"Now after 62 years—I am over 83—the stomach muscles are sufficiently strong to pull in hard. If held in hard for a short time, the pressure on the colon is very noticeable and there is never any constipation.

"Another exercise which is effective is as follows: Lie on back. Raise both legs about 45 degrees, spread them as wide as possible. Then close the legs and then continue on until the legs are crossed, the right toe pointing to the left and the left to the right. Both legs are still held at 45 degrees. It's a fine and excellent exercise.

"I thought you might like to hear about one who has used the exercise for a long, long time. The results are always the same."

I think the commodore was most gracious to write to me and I hope the vitality he has at the age of 83 may spur some of my readers on to regular exercise.

If you would like to have my short routine of exercise planned especially for women, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 19. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Lipstick Tip

If you pat a light amount of face powder all around your lips before you apply your lipstick, you'll prevent the lipstick from "bleeding".

BETTER THAN MASSIVE SCHEME

'Study Health Needs'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Medical Association believes an enquiry into health needs would be wiser than risking a massive scheme which "may have an eye to political health" rather than to national ills.

The point was made today by Dr. R. MacGregor Parsons, president of the Canadian Medical Association, at the annual scientific session here of the College of General Practice of Canada, a group of Canada's family doctors.

The CMA head emphasized that medical men have only one motive — the good health of Canadians.

There was more and more support for the thesis that medical care is a basic human right and comparable with the right for food, clothing and shelter.

"The time approaches when society will no longer permit citizens to rely on charity."

"Two obstacles in the quest for health, he said, are the deterioration in the doctor-patient relationship and an increasing scarcity of general practitioners."

The CMA executive, he said, felt "some urgency in attempting to remove the question of medical care from the political field," and consequently sought an enquiry into health needs.

The federal government's appointment of a royal commission did two things:

". . . It takes the issue of health insurance out of the political arena . . . permits us to portray the provision of health services in all aspects and to dispel the impression that doctors, doctoring and methods of financing medical services are the only ingredients in the attainment of good health."

25,000 FORCE FOR TEST BAN

GENEVA (Reuters) — An estimated maximum of 25,000 persons including some 6,000 technical experts will be needed to staff a world-wide control system to ban nuclear weapons tests, it was stated here Tuesday.

BOUND FOR AFRICA

Crash Kills Soviet Technicians

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—Czech investigators arrived here today to sift through the wreckage of a Czech airliner that crashed and killed 52 persons Tuesday night. There were no survivors.

The plane was carrying Soviet, Czech and Bulgarian technicians to Africa, Assistant Transport Minister Karl Stekl of Czechoslovakia reported on arrival. No western passengers were aboard, he added.

The airliner, bound for Bamako, capital of the West African Mali Republic, carried 44 passengers and a crew of eight.

Police reported at least one of the crash victims appeared to be a Soviet diplomat with current or former accreditation to Turkey.

Sun Tan Compounds 'Waste of Money'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Drug store sun-tan compounds which supposedly provide protection against sunburn are a waste of money, a University of British Columbia medical faculty member Tuesday told the College of General Practice here.

Dr. Donald H. Williams, dermatologist and head of the university's department of continuing medicine, added in an address about skin cancer, that few of the drug store lotions would produce a tan.

Cosmetic coatings which manufacturers say produce a tan are a waste of money. No skin covering is better than cheap zinc oxide ointment such as skiers use. The only protection in a sun-tan oil is its thickness. Many low-cost greases are equally effective.

He advised people who sunburn easily to stay in the shade. But if these adults and children get too much sun and develop skin cancer about 50 years later—the usual lapse of time — they should take comfort in the knowledge that skin cancer is the commonest and easiest to cure.

Dr. Williams said fair-skinned people who are able to build up a durable tan by gradual exposure need not worry.

He added the current cult for sun is the source of most skin cancer in older people. Those sensitive to the sun should avoid such sports as skiing and boating where sun rays are reflected by water and snow and instead choose a forest hobby such as hunting.

Second World War Aircraft, Bodies Found

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Army search parties have found the wreckage of six U.S. Second World War aircraft in the New Guinea jungle.

Five were Thunderbolt fighters and the other a C-47 transport containing the skeletons of 14 men.

The wreckage of two Japanese Zero fighters and an Australian Boomerang fighter with the pilot's body still at the controls also were found.

Discovery of the wreckage was made within the last three weeks by patrols searching for a light plane that disappeared on a flight to Port Moresby March 8.

All the aircraft were found in the central highland area. The wrecks were spotted from the air and patrols were sent to the spot.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

Playing at four diamonds, East ruffed the opening spade lead; drew trumps with two leads and led a club to dummy's jack.

3 ♦	3 ♠	4 ♦	Pass

Opening lead—♠ A

North won the trick with the king and led back the ten of hearts. East forced South's ace with the jack and managed to make his four diamond contract.

West remarked, "Nicely played, partner. I had really hoped to push our opponents on to four spades, so I could double them, but your play gave us a 30-point profit as against plus 100 for setting three spades one trick."

East had been fuming all through the play and even though he was pleased by West's praise of the dummy play East could not help remarking. "All that nice play was wasted. We are going to show a loss on this board because at the other table West will have doubled three spades and set the hand one or possibly two tricks. Our partners will be minus at least 200."

East's analysis turned out to be correct. At the other table West decided that North and South were not going to be nice enough to go to four spades. He also decided to gamble that he could set them at three.

West doubled and South had to work hard to get out for a 200-point loss.

Gary Cooper Narrates 'Real West' Documentary at 7.30 on 5

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

IT WOULDN'T be diffficult to consult any standard dictionary and unearth the cream of superlatives to describe CBC-TV's two-hour adaptation of Charles Dickens' "Great Expectations," Monday night. Rather, however, I would say merely that it was extraordinarily good, a production that can take its place among the best I have seen produced by anyone anywhere.

For this I believe Eric Till should receive full marks. His adaptation caught and held that most essential ingredient in translating Dickens—the period.

Now I believe that one may tamper with Shakespeare, Shaw and some of the works of the other great ones with respect to costuming and period without harming too much the sense and feel of the original plays. But Dickens is something else again. The period of which he wrote is as much a part of the play as are the lines and the characters. Fail in the feel for the period and everything else goes down the proverbial drain.

But Till caught it and held it for a solid, commercial-less 120 minutes. His Dickensian touch was especially notable in his direction. The lighting, costuming and sets also were an almost perfect blend to the required mood.

By this I do not mean to detract in any way from the skill of the actors. I thought Douglas Rain's Pip was first rate, deftly showing the transition from humbleness, to snobbery and from thence to humility through understanding. Cathleen Nesbitt, the 71-year-old English actress, made a memorable Miss Havisham while Michael Learned turned in a fine performance as the beautiful but haughty Estella.

* * *

BUT THEN THEY were all good and that's what made the production the rare one it was for the CBC. Although there were stars they were absorbed into the roundness of the whole until, in the end, they were not individuals but a closely-knit team.

Nonetheless, I would mention the work in particular of Eric House as the kindly Joe Gargery; James Douglas as Pip's true friend, Herbert Pocket; Ivor Barry as the flinty lawyer Jaggers; Tony Van Bridge as the convict Magwitch and Gillie Fenwick as Mr. Wemmick.

In conclusion I would say that "Great Expectations" is far too good a show to be seen once and forgotten. What a boon it would be for Canadian schools if copies of this were made available to school boards and libraries across Canada in order that the film might be seen in conjunction with Dickens' work whenever it was being studied. The same might be done with other CBC productions, such as its "Hamlet."

Indeed, if these productions could be made into prints and sold to the provinces and the cities think how productions costs might be shared.

* * *

DURING THE MONTHS of his last illness I purposely refrained from remarking on the late Jack Kane's obviously failing health. There was no need. Now, however, I would join thousands of other Canadians in saluting this gallant performer for a spirit that refused to be conquered even in face of what he must have known to be the inevitable. That takes exemplary courage.

At 37 he had risen to be among the best in his field, not only in his own country but in the United States as well where his arrangements were sought by none less than Broadway's renowned Ethel Merman and another, up-and-rising young man, Andy Williams. We will miss him.

'REPEATERS' ARE UNHAPPY

Jury Duty Prohibited For Thousands in City

By TONY DICKASON

Jurymen in Victoria are limited in numbers.

It's because of the unique population set-up here which under the Jury Act restricts those who can be selected for duty.

There have been complaints from persons who think they have been given more jury duty than the population warrants.

Reasons jurymen are restricted in numbers is due to one main factor, non-eligibility.

Not eligible are 2,600 provincial civil servants, 2,500 federal civil servants, persons over aged 65 who constitute 17 per cent of Greater Victoria's population, clergy, lawyers, doctors, newspapermen, dentists, druggists, policemen firemen, bank clerks—a host in a community of 125,000.

DISRUPTION

As explained by a spokesman for the attorney-general's department, many of these persons are exempt because serving on a jury would disrupt essential services.

Women can decline jury service if they wish, but men cannot, unless they are excused by a judge on sound grounds, such as health reasons.

One of the foremost complainants is Mrs. Helen Eaton, 1131 Oscar whose husband, John, had been selected for jury duty twice in eight years.

They came from Scotland eight years ago.

"Then, to our utter disbelief, we were telephoned to say he had been selected again."

MEDICAL REASONS

He was excused the latter time for medical reasons.

Jury duty has meant a considerable financial loss to her husband in the construction trade, and must mean comparable losses for persons in similar trades, she affirmed.

Her protest against present "inequities" of the present system has been sent Victoria MLA Donald Smith.

Jury panel names are chosen from 300 names, taken from the voters' list. They are selected by the sheriff, registrar of the supreme court, and the provincial assessor.

From this list a minimum of 48 potential jurors are selected.

Making this second selection are two justices of the peace, sheriff, and registrar of the Supreme Court.

A courthouse spokesman said "we open the voters' list and just look" to make the initial choices.

It is from the panel of 48 that jury selection is made by the lawyers involved in the trial.

The panel is brought into court at each trial opening to decide which jurors will sit. Crown or defence can accept or reject until the 12-man jury is reached.

$8 DAILY

Whether chosen or not, the jury panel is paid $8 each daily.

This modest sum is the source of complaint.

Mrs. Eaton said that not one of her friends had been called for jury duty, though many had lived in Victoria all their lives.

"We think it is high time something was done. It seems grossly unfair to us that just when a person should be looking forward to a fair amount of employment he should be expected, no, ordered to appear for an undetermined period of weeks . . . and also jeopardize his position on the labor market.

"If people in our position can not make the most of the good months the bad months would be very bad indeed."

PROVOKING

She said a really provoking point was that thousands of people who will never be called are in salaried positions and had living standards which would not be affected by jury duty.

Exemption of civil servants, she said, were apparently made on the grounds they would be prejudiced in favor of the employer, namely the government.

"In the name of all common sense is it a logical argument that a clerk from the highways department will be afraid to follow his conscience on a rape charge because there might be repercussions on his job? We think that exemption is obsolete. . . ."

ENJOY IT

Many older citizens, she went on, over age 65 would doubtless enjoy jury duty.

"Since most of our judges are much older than this, we cannot see that 65 is an infirm age.

"Indeed, we are sure the interests of justice would be better served by a relaxed older juror or salaried worker who had not the nagging problem of being unable to provide for his family at that time."

Mrs. Eaton suggested that jury selections be made by going through electoral roles alphabetically.

"One turn should just about take care of a lifetime if taken in some kind of rotation."

Legal opinion picked up in connection with Mrs. Eaton's claims is that she has "definite points" which should be considered.

Fire Hits Sask. Town

SHEHO, Sask. (CP)—Fire destroyed part of a business block in this community of 400 persons, 40 miles northwest of Yorkton, in eastern Saskatchewan, Tuesday night.

3 Killed When Rioters Hit Strikebound W. I. Island

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique (AP)—A general strike gripped this French island in the West Indies today in the wake of rioting.

Authorities have taken heavy security measures to combat tensions arising from widespread unemployment. The unrest flared into shooting last Friday when three persons were killed and 25 wounded, including six policemen.

Earlier, a group of hooded natives—known as Zombies—shot and wounded several farm workers. Police arrested two men. Cause of the Zombie attack was not known.

About 800 demonstrators in Lamentin, a Communist stronghold, marched on the town hall armed with knives, clubs and coconut shells filled with gunpowder to demand the release of the two.

When the crowd began throwing the coconut bombs, police opened fire. A young girl emerging from church and a three-year-old child were among the wounded.

Florida Courts Cool Collegians

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Scores of unkempt and scantily-clad college students today were sentenced to jail or fined following efforts of police to prevent further rioting of the holiday season in this embattled resort town.

More than 100 youths were arrested Tuesday night as police moved to clear out the Fort Lauderdale beach area.

Two judges operating at top speed gave 46 students a choice of three days in jail or a $35 fine. More were lined up awaiting court appearances.

Some 25,000 students, in Fort Lauderdale for spring vacations, rioted after police imposed a night-time ban on beer and waterfront necking.

The students appeared in court in wrinkled clothes and bathing trunks. Many were barefoot.

Municipal Court Judge Raymond Doumar said some 500 youths had been arrested as a result of riots of the last three days.

"We are confident the city authority now is in control," Doumar said.

Students complained in court about police tactics. And ocean-front resort owners expressed disapproval, too, saying restriction of the students was stifling business.

City authorities contemplated asking Governor Farris Bryant to help turn back some of the Easter vacation student crowd which has yet to arrive. Mayor Edward Johns said the city commission may ask Bryant to have Florida State University and University of Florida officials urge their students to stay away from Fort Lauderdale when classes break Thursday.

A five-block outdoor dance, organized with city help, kept perhaps one-tenth of the 25,000 collegians here occupied Tuesday night.

The British motor industry produced a record 1,352,728 cars in 1960.

CORNERSTONE OF THE NEW KIWANIS VILLA, newest addition to the Kiwanis Village housing project for elderly citizens, was laid Tuesday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett (back to camera). Villa will ultimately house 74 elderly single persons. First stage will be completed in August to house 50 tenants. Officials on the platform are, from right, R. N. E. Harris, Kiwanis Village Society president; Mayor Percy Scurrah; Jack Lee, president Victoria Kiwanis Club; Mrs. Scurrah, and Kiwanis lieutenant-governor Ernest W. H. Miller. Kiwanis Village already consists of 50 cottages, occupied by elderly couples or single persons. When the whole nine-acre site is developed the buildings alone will be valued at $1,250,000.

HARVARD LAMPOON HAS ITS FUN

'Movie Worst' Award Winners

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—The movie "Butterfield 8" and actors Eddie Fisher, Robert Mitchum, Frank Sinatra and Fabian were among top "movie worst" award winners today in the Harvard Lampoon's annual poll.

"Butterfield 8", was named the worst movie of 1960 while Eddie Fisher, who played in the movie, was given the worst supporting actor award.

The Lampoon, Harvard undergraduate humor magazine, said that the choice of Fisher was difficult. "In any other year he would have won easily but this was a banner year for bad movies."

Ranked behind "Butterfield 8", were: "Strangers When We Meet", "The Gazebo", "Ice Palace", "Exodus", "It Started In Naples", "Pepe", "Pollyanna", "Because They're Young", and "High Time".

Sinatra was voted worst actor of the year for his part in "Cancan", while Eva Marie Saint was named worst actress for her part in "Exodus".

LEAST PROMISING

Fabian took the "Uncrossed Heart" award as the least promising actor of 1960 for his role in "North to Alaska" and "The Roscoe", a trophy presented to that actor or actress who throughout the year has unfailingly maintained the lowest level of performance in the eyes of Lampoon, went to Mitchum.

"Alamo" got a special award, the "Along the Mohawk Grant", for the film with the most drummed up publicity campaign.

David Ladd in "Dog of Flanders", won the "Bratwurst Award" presented annually by the Delicatessen Owners' Union to the most obnoxious child star of the year.

Other awards:

The bad taste citation: "Broth of a Boy".

The off-color investiture: "The Green Carnation".

The Wilde Oscar, presented the actor who is willing to flout convention and reputation, to Jerry Lewis for "Cinderfella".

Wife Worth $3,000

TORONTO (CP)—A housewife, if paid on an hourly basis, would cost about $3,000 a year, according to James Band, deputy minister of public welfare.

In his annual report to Welfare Minister Cecile, tabled Tuesday in the legislature, Mr. Band said it was fortunate housewives considered their work a "labor of love."

EXHIBITION OPENS THURSDAY

Eskimo Prints on Display Here

Humor and jocose imagination are evident in a new series of striking Eskimo prints which go on exhibition here Thursday.

The graphic Eskimo art which has now become famous in Canada and the United States will go on display at the Quest Shop, 1023 Government Street, for a week ending April 7.

There will be a total of 79 prints, many dealing with the spirit world of the Eskimo. Some are definitely "spooky" while others reveal the lighter side of the native of Canada's northland.

The Eskimo artists used more color for their prints this year—a tricky business considering that they are made from seal skins and stone blocks.

The prints will be sold by a ballot-draw conducted by Colin Graham, curator of the Victoria Art Gallery, on the last day of the exhibition.

Mrs. Bessie FitzGerald, proprietor of the handicraft shop, said duplicate copies of the prints will go on an exhibition tour in western United States.

'Needle' Needed To Raise Money

Greater Victoria Celebrations Association is desperately casting around for new ways of raising money.

If necessary, people should be "needled" into giving donations, vice-president E. A. MacFayden told an association meeting Tuesday night.

Cost of staging the annual May 24 weekend celebration will run about $8,000 to $10,000 but only some $5,000 in donations are expected.

"Every year for the past 10 years we have had to get down on bended knee to get the funds to keep this organization running," said Mr. MacFayden.

"I think it is a disgrace for this community of 105,000 people."

Only a few people donate towards the events but thousands turn out to watch, he pointed out.

Bonspiel Reward For City Quartet

A Victoria rink skipped by Ella Harding returned home at the weekend with the top visitors' prize from the women's Big Three Totem bonspiel in Vancouver.

The Harding rink, which included third Thelma Cook, second Lillian Groves and lead Florence Etches, won seven of 11 games.

The original idea of a self-winding watch was devised in 1770 by a Swiss, Abraham-Louis Perrelet.

LADYSMITH OVERCROWDED

New Hospital Wing Asked

'HELPING HAND' SERVICE PLANNED BY HOUSEWIVES

DUNCAN—Two determined Duncan housewives, Mrs. Ann Holden and Mrs. Joan Day, have laid the ground work for the Cowichan Home Emergency Service to help families in times of trouble.

Object is to supply homemakers in the event of minor disasters or upsets which would leave families in a difficult position regarding operation of the home.

The two founders have discussed the plan with the local Red Cross, nursing units, women's organizations, and physicians, and feel it will win public support.

They are optimistic that the Red Cross will give supervision and assistance if and when a local committee* establishes and finances such a service.

LADYSMITH — A delegation will be sent to Victoria by Ladysmith Hospital Association to ask for immediate construction of a new wing for the hospital.

Board members said at a meeting here that at times there have been 41 bed patients in the 31-bed hospital, and one resident reported being kept in a corridor for three hours before being assigned to a ward.

There was dissatisfaction that the provincial health department had not given approval for construction.

DEBT-FREE

The hospital, opened in 1954, was built at a cost of $300,000, and was debt-free from the beginning. The community itself raised close to $100,000, and matching grants from federal and provincial governments provided the balance required.

It replaced an outmoded and overcrowded frame structure, but with the growth of the community it is urgently in need of additional space.

It is of concrete block construction, on one floor, with adequate room for expansion.

Directors re-elected at the meeting for further three-year terms were Mrs. Dorothy Schofield, North Oyster; Dan McKenzie, Saltair, and William Hallinan, Ladysmith.

SALT SPRING BRIEFS

Trail of Cougar Found by Hunter

GANGES — James Dewar, Nanaimo, government predator hunter, is on the trail of a cougar which has killed several sheep in the vicinity of Mount Bruce at the southern end of Salt Spring Island.

Tracks were found on Mount Bruce by Robert Akerman and his son, Ted, who have a large flock of sheep in the area.

* * *

GANGES — An improved physical education program for Salt Spring Island Elementary-Senior High School was outlined for the PTA here by physical training instructor James Wickens.

It will place more emphasis on participation sports and less on the spectator sports, he said. The school is badly in need of a proper auditorium-gymnasium and better equipment, he added.

Miss M. Oulton listed the scholarships, bursaries and loans available to students wishing to continue their education in either academic or vocational fields.

Any adult in the community may become a member of the PTA, and meetings are open to the public. Non-members, however, cannot vote.

* * *

GANGES — Showing by senior high school students of the operetta, "An Old Kentucky Home," based on songs of Stephen Collins Foster, was acclaimed here as a success.

Principals in the cast were Gladys Patterson, Marcia Sober, Marguerite Gear, Bruce Begon, Charlie Butt, Erling Jorgenson, Dent LaFleur, Henry Caldwell, Ron Bonar and Georgina Burge.

Mrs. A. J. Hepburn was producer; Mrs. W. Seymour, director, and J. M. Evans, dramatic coach. Choreography was directed by Miss O. Mouat.

Home economics students at the school were in charge of costumes, and industrial arts students looked after scenery and lighting.

Youth Centre Work Starts This Weekend

Construction of a combined exhibition and youth centre at Luxton fair grounds is scheduled to start this weekend.

Stan Hiscock, director of the Metchosin Farmers' Institute, said today the building will be completed in time for the Luxton Fair in August.

"The property is staked out and we are ready to start construction," he said.

The new building, to cost about $4,000 with volunteer labor, will be named the "Douglas Chidlow Memorial," in memory of the boy who lost his life in a drowning accident at Sproat Lake last summer.

It will be mainly used for Boy Scout and 4-H activities.

MONTREAL (CP) — Rev. Alfred Theo Jordan, of the African Evangelical Church in Montreal, Tuesday was sentenced to one year in jail for bringing British West Indians into Canada illegally. He pleaded guilty to nine charges.

Lease Granted 4-H Clubhouse

DUNCAN — Highways department has granted Cowichan Holstein Calf Club a long-term lease "without charge" on a small piece of land on the Trans-Canada Highway south of here which will become the site of a 4-H clubhouse.

Highways Minister Gaglardi told O. T. Doney, Cowichan Station, organizer of the club, the lease will be allowed as long as the area is used "solely for 4-H work."

Officers of the club are Martin Doney, president; Ronald Halk, vice-president, and Gladys Roberts, secretary. The 21 members will build the clubhouse through donations and voluntary effort.

Eye-Catching Sign Proposed at Duncan

DUNCAN — City council hopes to establish a large sign and clock on Trans-Canada Highway to direct travellers to the city's business section.

Payment for the project, if approved, would be from the city's business tax.

Plans for a sign and for a message now are being considered.

NEWS OF THE ISLAND

NANAIMO — Fire which swept through the Royal Canadian Legion branch kitchen here Monday night has left an estimated $10,000 damage in its wake.

Believed to have started in faulty wiring, the fire destroyed the kitchen and coffee shop.

So, Who Cares?

DUNCAN—Magazine salesmen aren't as well schooled these days as they used to be.

Representative of a United States national business magazine called on a local lawyer this week in an attempt to sell him a subscription.

"This magazine," he told the disinterested lawyer, "is directed at men like you."

"Not interested," replied the lawyer, bracing himself for the expected sales pitch.

"No matter," said the salesman turning on his heel and walking out. "I ain't working my way through college anyway."

Homer Elected

DUNCAN—John Homer has been elected president of Duncan Rotary Club.

Ken McAdam is vice-president.

Other officers elected for the 1961-62 term include Peter Bird, treasurer; Bert Dodd, secretary; Ted Robson, Fred Clark, Neil Gray and Art Jones, directors.

Bus Driver Fined

DUNCAN — School bus driver Donald Achurch was fined $10 and costs in police court after he was convicted of making a left-hand turn on the highway from the wrong lane.

The charge was laid following an accident on the Malahat Highway March 22, when a car driven by Alfred Schmidt of Victoria ran into the rear of the bus.

None of the occupants of the bus were injured but passengers in the car were shaken up. There was little damage to the bus but damage to the car amounted to $750.

"This has nothing to do with the question of responsibility for the accident," said the magistrate after convicting Achurch of the charge Monday.

Skeleton Found

FULFORD—A skeleton, believed to be that of an Indian, was found by Mrs. Rudy Olson in the garden of her home at Beaver Point, Salt Spring Island.

It was intact and was sent to Victoria by RCMP for study. Historians say many other skeletons have been found on the island, but that most have been damaged in the finding.

Courtenay Loan

A federal loan of $177,596 to assist in construction of a sewage treatment project at Courtenay has been approved, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation announced Tuesday in Ottawa.

The loan covers part of a total cost of $266,365 for the project.

Swimming Pool Planned At Fuller's

NORTH COWICHAN—Construction of a small swimming pool at Fuller's Lake Park in Chemainus is among the projects budgeted for in the municipality of North Cowichan $9,000 parks program.

The pool is expected to cost $1,500.

Other work scheduled during the year includes: Kinsmen Beach, Chemainus, roads and sewers, $800; Maple Mountain Park, complete road, $1,500; Smith Bay Beach, survey, $1,000; Crofton Beach, parking lot, $1,600.

Budget also provides for the hiring of four summer caretakers at municipal beaches and general maintenance of facilities.

A budget of $2,000 for the municipal sports council also has been approved.

GROOS SPEAKS AT SIDNEY

'Jobs Must Come First'

Advanced social legislation and a "better life" must await the solution of Canada's most immediate problem, the creation of work for 700,000 who are without jobs or pay at the present time.

This was the view expressed by Capt. David Groos, Liberal candidate in the Esquimalt-Sannich byelection, at a meeting in Sidney Hotel Tuesday evening.

"We need a strong, imaginative government to get at the root of our economic problems," he said. "I believe the Liberals will provide such a government."

Capt. Groos conceded that the results of the byelection will neither strengthen nor overthrow the Diefenbaker government.

DAILY REMINDER

"But I suggest that a Liberal MP from this riding would be a living, breathing, daily reminder to the government that 700,000 Canadians just plain don't like being without jobs," he said.

Capt. Groos said part of the blame for the present recession can be laid to the "facts of economic life—the cycle of boom and bust which stretches backward into history.

"But," he added, "with the economic and fiscal machinery available to government, it needn't stretch forward into posterity.

GOV'T REFUSAL

"That's one of the responsibilities of the federal government—a responsibility it has refused to accept in full."

One area of federal responsibility is in the field of foreign trade, he said, and urged the establishment of an economic advisory board with a planning staff to make plans for the recovery and expansion of both domestic and international trade.

"The government should be in constant consultation with labor and management in an effort to decrease the unit cost of goods offered for sale abroad," he said.

REAL-LIFE QUEEN . . . WOW!

ON LAOS

Russia Consults Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indian diplomatic sources said today the Soviet Union is consulting Communist China on the question of a cease-fire in Laos.

These sources indicated the prospects are about even for a satisfactory political settlement to be reached between the West and the Communist bloc over the neutralization of Laos.

Allied diplomats who attended briefings at the state department reported that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko promised President Kennedy on Monday he would relay the results of his talks promptly to Moscow and expected an answer within a few days.

U.S. officials were said to consider the "few days" could mean as long as a week and conceivably even two weeks.

Nevertheless these allied diplomats considered the resolution adopted by the Southeast Asia Treaty council of ministers at Bangkok carried enough teeth to be effective in the event the Soviet Union stalled indefinitely.

FIGHTING SLOWS

It was also reported here that while hostilities are still underway in Laos, the fighting is not on as intense a scale as in recent weeks.

Soviet consultations with the Chinese Communists were reported to be taking place in Peking rather than at the Warsaw Pact meeting in Moscow.

U.S. officials were reported to be viewing the Laotian crisis in "an atmosphere of guarded optimism" after a state department briefing of SEATO diplomats Tuesday on President Kennedy's meeting with Gromyko and British Prime Minister Macmillan.

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan said Tuesday night he has received a message giving rise to hope that Russia will regard Britain's peace proposal for Laos as a good basis for solving the crisis.

MOSCOW (UPI)—The "summit" meeting of Communist Warsaw Pact members ended its second session in complete secrecy today. (See page 5.)

ARMORED CAR DRIVER AIDS $100,000 THEFT

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — An armored car driver and two accomplices stole $100,000 today.

While two Mayne Nickless Ltd. employees were delivering money inside the government offices to pay treasury department employees, the driver and two men stole the armored car containing almost $150,000.

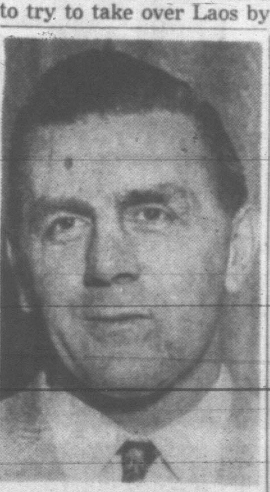
The car was found abandoned a short distance away. About $50,000 unaccountably was left inside the vehicle.

Witnesses told investigating officers that three men in their late 20's had unloaded steel containers from the armored car into a station wagon and that they sped away.

'Leave Laos Alone' SEATO Warns Reds

By EARNEST HOBERECHT

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—The United States and its SEATO allies warned the Communists today not to try to take over Laos by force.



NEW COACH?

Target of New York Rangers' attention is retired Montreal star, Maurice "Rocket" Richard, Rangers' general manager, Muzz Patrick, said today he will talk with Richard to see whether latter is interested in New York coaching job.

But the allies did not specify what steps they would take to prevent a Red takeover if their warning is ignored.

An eight-point statement issued in a communique at the end of the three-day seventh annual meeting of the SEATO council was an apparent compromise.

It voiced "grave concern" over Communist attempts to take over Southeast Asia in "flagrant disregard of the Geneva accords of 1954." But it stopped short of openly threatening to use force if the Soviet union rejects a British note asking an immediate cease fire in Laos.

NO HARD LINE

Comment by the foreign ministers after the conference was optimistic for public consumption. But failure to include any indication of a hard military line underscored reported differences among the delegates.

The United States, backed by Thailand and the Philippines, wanted a stern stand taken with the Russians who have been supplying Red forces in Laos.

The French wanted the communique phrased in soft terms.

The British, backed by Australia, New Zealand and Pakistan, favored a middle ground.

RUSK PLEASED

Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported "highly pleased" with what finally came out of the conference, although the U.S. did not get all it wanted. He was described as believing that the meeting "very definitely strengthened the position of SEATO and the U.S."

He warned, however, that the U.S. would "meet the threat" of Communism in Asia. Observers said this indicated that if the Soviet Union rejects the cease fire proposal, the U.S., Thailand and the Philippines might be willing to take action on their own.

Starving Congo Seeks UN Help

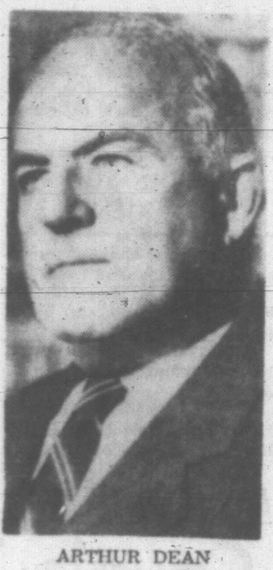
(See page 7)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Congo told the United Nations today that if the world organization cannot help it financially, the country must "knock at other doors."

Congolese delegate Jean N'Sele told the General Assembly's budgetary committee hundreds of thousands of his countryman are starving and UN funds are necessary immediately.

Satellite Plan Under Study

GENEVA (UPI)—The United States today asked the Soviet Union to join in launching of a space patrol of satellites to prevent secret nuclear testing high above the earth or behind the moon.



ARTHUR DEAN
. . . presents offer

The program would be part of a treaty banning atomic and hydrogen weapon tests. It would involve launching highly instrumented satellites and building up ground control systems.

U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean outlined the proposal to the three-power nuclear conference. He was supported by British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore.

Russian scientists have agreed with Western experts that it would be possible thus to police outer space. But the Soviet delegation has held back from committing itself.

SNEAKS POSSIBLE

Dean said there are scientific indications that it would be possible to conduct sneak nuclear weapon tests behind the sun or the moon.

One problem which has stumped the scientists thus far centres on how to determine the difference between a nuclear blast conducted in outer space and some cosmic storm which produces a similar kind of reading on detection instruments.

A false alarm would be dangerous once a test suspension was reached.

Dean said the satellites to check on nuclear blasts could be orbited around the earth at altitudes of 300 to 60,000 miles. Full coverage of outer space could be obtained by putting four satellites in orbit around the sun.

ABOUT 20

The over-all plan would include perhaps 10 satellites in a "near-earth system" — so called because they would orbit only at altitudes of 300 to 500 miles; five or six satellites in a "far earth" system about 37,000 miles above the earth, and four solar satellites travelling in the earth's orbit around the sun.

These space patrolling satellites would be equipped with apparatus which would detect amounts of gamma and X-rays following a nuclear explosion in space.

After a further meeting, at which the United States and Britain plan to summarize their newest concessions, the conferees take a four-day Easter recess.

The Western powers hope that when they return to the conference table next week, the Soviets will have some comment to make. The Russians have been silent throughout the nine days since the Western concessions first were described.

Man Released In '59 Killing

VANCOUVER (CP) — The RCMP Tuesday night released a man after questioning him here in connection with a two-year-old murder.

The man was arrested earlier in the day by a Vancouver beat policeman.

RCMP said they questioned the 33-year-old man in connection with the rifle slaying of Bruce Worline, 30, of Los Angeles, north of Prince George in July of 1959.

S.A. 'Treason Trial' Ends in Mass Acquittal

PRETORIA (AP)—A three-judge tribunal today acquitted 28 persons charged with plotting violent overthrow of the South African government to establish a Communist regime.

The unanimous verdict brought to an end the longest and costliest trial in the country's history, lasting nearly four years and costing many thousands of pounds. It was a stunning defeat for Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white supremacy government.

The widely heralded "treason trial" resulted from the arrest of 156 persons of all races in country-wide dawn raids December, 1956. A world-wide campaign raised defence funds.

Ninety-two persons were indicted but the government dropped the charges against 64 soon after the trial began.

The defendants claimed they were only seeking an end to the Nationalist government's policy of apartheid — white supremacy and strict racial segregation.

BURST INTO SONG

A crowd in the jammed courtroom burst into the African freedom song, God Bless Africa, when the acquittals were announced. Negro, white and Indian women were among those rushing to congratulate the defendants.

Among the chief targets of the trial were leaders of the African National Congress, outlawed after the race riots that followed the police massacre at Sharpville last March.

The court found there was "no evidence" of Communistic infiltration into the congress "nor was it proved the congress had become a Communist organization."

The judges said the congress members and the others accused were working to change "the present form of state" but the government failed to show they wanted a Communist state.

The verdict also said there was no proof the congress "intended to achieve this new state by violent means." The judges conceded, however, that the congress action program "contemplated the use of illegal methods and that its application in fact resulted in illegal action during the defiance campaign."

Some of the freed defendants announced immediately they will continue to work for the freedom of South Africa and all humanity."

U.K. Probes Spy Weakness

LONDON (UPI)—The government today ordered a sweeping investigation to "find out what's wrong" with Britain's secret services and their information exchange with American spy-catching agencies.

Home Secretary Richard A. Butler, heading the government in Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's absence, announced the investigation in the House of Commons.

'Disturbed' Iraq Slaps on Curfew

CAIRO (UPI)—Cairo newspapers today reported "violent disturbances" in Iraq and a "serious shakeup" in the Jordanian high command.

They said Iraqi military governor Majjen Ahmed Saleh El Abdi has imposed a nightly curfew beginning at 4 p.m. local time with orders to shoot on sight any curfew breakers.

They quoted an alleged order by Abdi as saying the measures were taken to foil "agitation for violence and disturbances in the country."

They said Iraqi Premier Abdel Kassem rushed back to Baghdad from Basra where he had been for three days in his first visit outside the capital since the Iraq revolution.

OTTAWA AIR POLLUTED

Can't Charge Gov't; May Nab Employees

OTTAWA (CP) — The city may lay air pollution charges against the federal government—through its employees.

Told that a municipality can't lay charges against the federal government, the air pollution committee decided at a meeting to study the possibility of laying the charges against the civil servants ment. operating the offending equip-

"Then the Crown can stand behind him and pay the fine," suggested Alderman Ken Fogary.

The government, the capital's biggest landlord, was a frequent offender of the air pollution bylaw, members complained.

GROOS 'INVADES' OTTAWA

By TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Liberal candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich is a firm believer in the power of newspaper advertising.

The candidate, David Groos, through his campaign committee, had the following "ad" published in today's editions of an Ottawa newspaper:

"Beautiful, productive, sunny Esquimalt-Saanich, B.C., has everything except a federal member of Parliament.

"We have been without one since October, 1960. Six months is a long time. How about it, Mr. Prime Minister?

"David Groos, Liberal candidate, Esquimalt-Saanich.

"Remember, no taxation without representation."

The advertisement was obviously inspired by the prime minister's failure to fix a date for the byelection despite repeated proddings from the Opposition. Mr. Diefenbaker has consistently refused to set a date for the vote.

Canada Gives $1,250,000 To Burma

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada has agreed to allocate $1,250,000 of its 1961 Colombo Plan contribution to Burma, it was announced today.

Under an agreement between the two countries, $900,000 will be used to construct a bridge linking Rangoon with the satellite town of Thaketa.

The money, in counterpart funds from Canadian wheat sales to Burma, will be used to obtain materials and equipment from Canada and to hire the necessary Canadian supervisory personnel for the project.

The remaining $350,000 of the allocation is being used for the provision of Canadian wheat, shipment of which already has started.

New MSI Plan Aids Elderly

A new medical insurance plan intended chiefly for elderly men and women who have retired is announced by Medical Services Incorporated—a non-profit organization operated by B.C. doctors.

It is open to any resident of British Columbia, including those 65 and over not eligible for any other medical coverage.

"No medical examination is needed for enrolment and there is absolutely no age limit," an MSI spokesman said today.

Insurance is offered at $2.95 a month or $8.85 quarterly for a single person; $5.90 a month or $17.70 quarterly for two persons; $7 a month or $21 quarterly for a couple with unmarried children under 19.

WIDE BENEFITS

The benefits include:

All medical and surgical care in hospital; all medical care at home or in a doctor's office in case of accident; maternity services, including pre-natal and post-natal care, after nine months from date of enrolment.

Medical care at home or in a doctor's office for sickness is not offered under this plan, as in the case of employee-group plans operated by MSI and MSA.

Also excluded from the new plan are drugs, medicines and appliances, refractions, eyeglasses, dental and physiotherapy treatment, laboratory services or radiology.

AVAILABLE APRIL 1

In case of emergency insured persons are entitled to medical and surgical care, comparable to B.C. standards, anywhere in the world.

The offer is available from April 1 to 18 but applications can be sent to B.C. Medical Services Incorporated, 2015 West Broadway, Vancouver 9.

It is estimated there are some 650,000 British Columbians not covered by insurance plans or social assistance.

Applicants must enclose cheque or money orders to cover their first three months' subscription.

"We hope to enrol about 5,000 persons between now and April 18," the MSI spokesman said.

Since 1954, MSI has offered group insurance to firms with three to nine employees, with the employer paying half the cost of premiums.

The Medical Services Association provides insurance to firms with 10 or more employees, with the employer paying half.

IWA Sets 'Trial'

VANCOUVER—A man who ran as a Communist candidate in the last B.C. election will be tried April 8 by the International Woodworkers of America (CLC).

George Lakusta faces expulsion from IWA Local 1-217 if found guilty by a jury of local members of being a Communist. The IWA constitution does not permit Communists to be union members.

President Syd Thompson of Local 1-217 said Lakusta would not lose his job at Canadian White Pine Company if found guilty.

Mr. Thompson said a jury panel of 30 members will be chosen by drawing their card numbers out of a hat. The jury of 12 is chosen from the panel at the start of the trial.

The verdict of the jury must be ratified by a membership meeting.

DRIVERLESS CAR NUDGES HOUSE

Couple Thrown to Street

A man and his wife were thrown to the pavement and their driverless car swept into a front garden after a two-car crash at Richmond and Haultain at about 9 p.m. Tuesday.

City and Saanich police cars rushed to the scene when it was feared injuries were severe, but Cecil H. Dash, 61, and his wife Elizabeth, 52, of 1912 Carnarvon, both were discharged from Royal Jubilee Hospital later.

Third motorist, James Nelson, of 275 Sooke, was not hurt in the accident.

A crowd milling about the intersection hampered police in getting the injured to hospital and investigating the crash until traffic was re-routed from Richmond.

Cecil Dash, driver of a car travelling on Richmond, was treated for shock, and Mrs. Dash and her husband both were treated for bruises, abrasions and small cuts.

Their car was in collision with one driven on Haultain by Nelson, police said.

The Dash car then kept going into the yard at 2543 Richmond, home of Miss A. G. Scott, over a flowerbed and nudged the house.

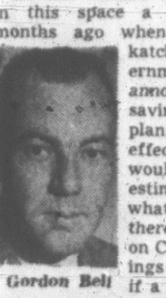
Provincial Bond Plans Will Hit Federal Issues

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

An idle remark was passed in this space a couple of months ago when the Saskatchewan government first announced its savings bond plan, to the effect that it would be interesting to see what effect there would be on Canada Savings Bond sales if a number of other provinces followed the Saskatchewan lead.



Gordon Bell

Of course, prior to the Saskatchewan issue, the B.C. parity bonds had been on the market for some time and there was no doubt they had some effect on Canada Savings Bond sales.

Now Manitoba has concluded a successful sale of provincial savings bonds and the word is that Ontario is looking with considerable interest on a similar plan.

With Ontario and perhaps three or four other provinces issuing parity bonds bearing interest at a rate one-quarter per cent higher than the federal bonds, there is no doubt that a tremendous amount of personal savings would be mopped up.

In fact the diversion of personal savings to provincial parity bonds could cause difficulties for capital-seeking organizations other than the federal government and would certainly have the effect of keeping pressure on interest rates.

The Canadian bond market in general is less than buoyant these days with considerable new financing and unsold balances. There has been hesitancy on the part of some investors and even the long-awaited province of Ontario $50 million 5¼ and 5½ issue was hardly enthusiastically received.

One of Mr. Davidson's last official acts was to release an interesting Metropolitan Life bulletin which vividly illustrates the change in insurance company disbursements from the time not too many years ago when almost the only people to collect on life policies were the beneficiaries.

The bulletin shows that on the basis of company-wide averages, about twice as much was paid last year to living policy holders as was paid to beneficiaries. Total peyments to Briitsh Columbia policy-holders and beneficiaries last year was $4,897,945.

Lack of confidence in recent U.S. grain legislation formed the basis for the situation.

CONTROVERSIAL SAN FRANCISCO BISHOP SPEAKS OUT HERE

Virgin Birth 'An Image, Not Literal History'

By TONY DICKASON

Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike, 47, former U.S. Supreme Court lawyer and one of the continent's leading theological thinkers, said here today he believed in the divinity of Christ, but not in the virgin birth.

He termed the latter concept an "image, not literal history."

Whether or not Jesus came through Joseph was not important, the bishop said. What was important was Jesus' incarnation, his divinity in humanity.

140 CHURCHES

Bishop Pike's see is San Francisco and he administers 140 churches with 50,000 communicants. He was appointed bishop in 1958 and previously was dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York City, the world's largest Anglican Church. It seats 10,000.

He is preaching at noon today and Thursday at Christ Church Cathedral in connection with Holy Week observances.

ACCUSED

Bishop Pike has been charged with a "heretical" outlook in matters of doctrine by a group of southern U.S. clergy.

But his belief is that today it does not make absolute sense to base Christian thought altogether on "the great philosophical fellows of the 4th century."

Of necessity, they were obliged to talk in visual concepts readily understood at that time.

UNWORRIED

Bishop Pike is not worried by criticism.

"I am within the limits of theological orthodoxy permitted under Anglican thought."

The forms the Christian world has used to enshrine truth are not the permanent thing. He said no particular form of observance is incompatible if it conveys the true meaning of belief in God.

On this point, he mentioned that the Gothic in architecture when originated was considered practically irreligious.

Today, there are contemporary art forms in church structures, vestments, and other modern developments in the church.

"Simply because the idiom is modern, doesn't rule it out."

This, referring to his earlier remarks, also applied to more direct spiritual considerations.

"Maps become more and more adequate, but the terrain remains unchanged."

"BLASPHEMY"

He stated emphatically it is "blasphemy" to worship the form alone, losing sight of the reality, "God, the absolute."

Among worshippers, there is much confusion of this form with the fact, he said.

Thus a "jazz mass," recently presented and the centre of controversy, "is perfectly fine," if it has appeal to a specific group and leads to their spiritual betterment.

Audience participation in any form of service, said Bishop Pike, is essential to its preservation and appreciation. Popular audience participation shows on television were one instance of this.

On over-all church unity, he predicted it would be accomplished "bit by bit" rather than through some wonderful unique revelation of how it could be brought about.

"The foundation of broadened understanding is being built all the time."

GAS LAMP CEREMONY THURSDAY

A 50-year-old gas street light from Britain will be lit Thursday at a ceremony on the Causeway by Ald. J. L. W. McLean, chairman of the city's street lighting committee.

Intended as a tourist attraction, it was to be erected today next to the Victoria publicity bureau building. B.C. Electric will provide the gas to keep the old lamp glimmering contually.

The lantern was donated to the city by lighting superintendent Kenneth Reid who brought it back from England after a visit there last year.

Besides providing another sentimental link with England, it will recreate the atmosphere of Victoria 100 years ago when the waterfront district was lit by gas lanterns, he said.

NEW PLANNER HERE

'Still Time To Correct Urban Sprawl'

By JOHN MIKA

Wasteful and ugly urban sprawl has reached serious proportions in Greater Victoria but there still is time to correct much of the problem, the capital region's new planning head said today.

A. H. Roberts, 35, expressed the opinion in an interview during a familiarization visit here before he assumes his new post April 17.

Mr. Roberts, currently assistant director of planning for Burnaby, will succeed Brahm Wiesman who has held the senior planning post since the Capital Region Planning Board was established in 1954 by the provincial government and local municipalities. Mr. Wiesman moves to Vancouver as an assistant planning director for the mainland city.

TWO PROBLEMS

Mr. Roberts said even a casual drive from the airport to the city revealed urban sprawl and urban blight as the two big problems here.

"In some ecities, urban sprawl has advanced to the point where you can only throw up your hands in despair.

"It's serious here, but fortunately not so bad as to prevent a great deal of improvement.

HEALTH TO HEART

"But we can't just be concerned with the newer developing areas, we must also do something to give health to the heart of the city and completion of the urban renewal program will have high priority," he said.

A Welshman, Mr. Roberts brings plenty of experience and qualifications to his new and "all-round challenging job."

He worked as a planning official in Britain, where he was trained before coming to Canada in 1953, where he joined the Ontario government planning department and later served 2½ years as a senior planner for the city of Toronto.

He took a year off to travel and study planning techniques in Japan, India and Europe before assuming his Burnaby post almost three years ago.

PADLOCK PROBLEM SOLVED

Two Pandora Avenue toddlers were returned by police to their home for the fifth time in two weeks early today after found wandering at Pandora and Blanshard in their pajamas.

Norman and Martin Gamble, 919½ Pandora, seem to enjoy their early gambolling but police—and their mother—are getting a little weary.

In an effort to stop them sneaking away while the rest of the family are in bed, the Gambles put a padlock on their apartment door.

Undeterred, the two and three-year-old youngsters today crept out their upper floor window, along a narrow ledge and down the fire escape.

'He Wanted an Apple So He Robbed Store'

WHAT IS SO RARE as a sansevieria in bloom? Another sansevieria in bloom, but it's extremely doubtful you could find one, in the opinion of H. V. O'Reilly, 2119 Oak Bay Avenue, owner of this 40-inch member of the cactus family. He's cultivated it for 10 years; this is the first time it has produced a flower, and Mr. O'Reilly, a plant fancier, says he's never heard of one blooming before. Plant is a native of Abyssinia, is found in southwestern United States. (Times Photo.)

Two Youths Jailed In Shooting Spree

Up to 21 months in jail will be spent by one of two teen-aged boys sentenced today to Oakalla jail young offenders' unit for a shooting, burglary and theft spree at Victoria shops.

Magistrate William Octler gave Rodney Leason, 18, of Rockland Avenue, 15 months definite and six months indeterminate, concurrent, on each of 13 charges of breaking and entering, and four of wilful damage.

Karl Sjoberg, 17, of 2251 Belmont, was sentenced to nine months definite and six months indeterminate on the same charges.

Mr. Ostler referred to the string of burglaries, thefts and store window shootings as "a shocking array of serious indictable offences.

'COLD CALLOUS'

"It is very difficult to understand boys like you. All of these offences were committed with a cold, callous, contemptible disregard for the law."

Addressing Leason, Magistrate Ostler referred to a probation report, finding indication of cynicism:

"You broke into a dairy because you wanted a glass of milk; a grocery store because you wanted an apple.

"Finally you persuaded yourself you were pretty big stuff and any place presented a challenge."

DISREGARD

In reference to the shootings — which followed theft of rifles, shotgun and ammunition in several burglaries—Mr. Ostler said to Leason:

"You fired innumerable times from a great distance (at the shop windows) with complete disregard for the safety or lives of others.

"No doubt you were led along," he said to Sjoberg. "You fired only one shot, but you must be responsible, too."

He considered Leason's difficult family life without a father, lack of education, training and emotional problems, but noted Sjoberg had a previously good record and is of higher intelligence, "therefore there is less excuse for you."

DRIVERS' TROUBLES PILING UP

Edward Dick, of 1 Cooper Road, was fined a total of $275 or 29 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to charges in city police court following a two-mile chase in Victoria West and Esquimalt at 1.45 a.m. today.

Court was told he is already some $300 in arrears after getting time to pay previous fines, including one for impaired driving when his licence was suspended.

Magistrate William Ostler ordered payment of the new fines forthwith—or jail.

Dick was fined $150 for driving while suspended, $100 for careless driving and $25 for driving without current licence plates.

60-MPH CHASE

In addition, he is prohibited from driving anywhere in Canada for two years.

Cons. Thomas Anthony said he saw Dick's car go through a stop sign at Springfield and Esquimalt, and followed it through a maze of short streets and intersections leading eventually back to Esquimalt Road at speeds up to 60 miles an hour, the police car's siren and red light going full blast.

Harbord 'Drafted' to Lead Community Chest Drive

By HAL JONES

Insurance executive Justin Harbord has been "drafted" to run this year's Community Chest campaign.

His appointment as campaign chairman for 1961 was announced Tuesday at the annual meeting of Greater Victoria Community Chest.

This is the second time Mr. Harbord has led the annual Red Feather drive although he told Chest officials he has only agreed to take on the job because of a lack of available leaders.

Mr. Harbord, who is now in California on vacation, was [illegible] 1958 drive, when a record sum was realized.

(Earlier this year, in response to an appeal by Mayor Percy Scurrah to "consider a matter of community importance," 30 local business leaders agreed to act as directors of the 1961 campaign. Several meetings have already been held, at which Mr. Harbord acted as co-ordinator and temporary chairman.)

"NOT SO GLOOMY"

Chest president Eric Mallett said Tuesday night: "Things are not so gloomy as everyone thinks.

"Last year the Chest did exceptionally well in view of the obstacles it faced. There seemed to be a stigma—I don't know why."

Mr. Mallett said Community Welfare Council should conduct a public relations job for every agency in the Chest.

"If this is accomplished we will be able to go out before the public to ask them for funds without having to explain why this or that agency is in the Chest," Mr. Mallett said.

Referring to the establishment of a Charitable Appeals Committee, the president said this is necessary if the Chest ever hopes to operate as a United Appeal and cut out a possible duplicating of efforts.

"We must make sure we are asking the public for money that is really neeeded," he said.

THREE REASONS

Bernard Van Aggelen, last year's campaign chairman, said there were three reasons the $350,000 goal was not reached:

A number of capital appeals to the public were held before the Chest's drive.

Too many of the key campaign personnel were not appointed until a late stage of planning had been reached;

The goal was 20 per cent higher than the previous year's.

Mr. Van Aggelen said the failure couldn't be blamed on the ordinary residents or working people of Victoria—many of them contributed to the fund though they could ill afford it.

"It's my opinion that it was the people who could give that didn't," he said.

$304,318 ALLOCATED

Campaign revenue less expenses last year amounted to $277,109. Investments on funds realized a further $7,000 and the reserve fund provided an extra $20,207, making a total of $304,318 allocated to the 22 agencies.

Mr. Mallett said this year's [illegible] lic as the Uni etppAedfund lic as the United Appeal—despite the fact that Red Cross and the Salvation Army recently turned down a request to join the Chest.

'Rival' Aid For Odeon Operations

Famous Players (Canada) Corp., it was learned Wednesday, has agreed to supervise Victoria's Odeon Theatre on Yates Street for Odeon Theatres (Canada) Ltd.

It is understood the former theatrical rivals in Canada have come to an agreement to help one another cut down on operating costs in four Cana- [illegible] liam, an unnamed town in Ontario, and Victoria.

Famous Players will supervise Odeon Theatres in three of the four places mentioned. However, Odeon will supervise for Famous Players in Fort William.

Quite apart from this information but underlining the same theme was a statement Wednesday from Steve Allen, manager of Odeon's Plaza Theatre that closes its doors to business following Saturday's final showing.

Said Mr. Allen: "Our closing will result in a greater choice of better films being made available for the Odeon, Royal and Capitol theatres."

'Leave Laos Alone' SEATO Warns Reds

By EARNEST HOBERECHT

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—The United States and its SEATO allies warned the Communists today not to try to take over Laos by force.

But the allies did not specify what steps they would take to prevent a Red takeover if their warning is ignored.

An eight-point statement issued in a communique at the end of the three-day seventh annual meeting of the SEATO council was an apparent compromise.

It voiced "grave concern" over Communist attempts to take over Southeast Asia in "flagrant disregard of the Geneva accords of 1954." But it stopped short of openly threatening to use force if the Soviet union rejects a British note asking an immediate cease fire in Laos.

NO HARD LINE

Comment by the foreign ministers after the conference was optimistic for public consumption. But failure to include any indication of a hard military line underscored reported differences among the delegates.

The United States, backed by Thailand and the Philip- [illegible] taken with the Russians who have been supplying Red forces in Laos.

The French wanted the communique phrased in soft terms.

The British, backed by Australia, New Zealand and Pakistan, favored a middle ground.

RUSK PLEASED

Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported "highly pleased" with what finally came out of the conference, although the U.S. did not get all it wanted. He was described as believing that the meeting "very definitely strengthened the position of SEATO and the U.S."

He warned, however, that the U.S. would "meet the threat" of Communism in Asia. Observers said this indicated that if the Soviet Union rejects the cease fire proposal, the U.S., Thailand and the Philippines might be willing to take action on their own.

U.K. Probes Spy Weakness

LONDON (UPI)—The government today ordered a sweeping investigation to "find out what's wrong" with Britain's secret services and their information exchange with American spy-catching agencies.

Home Secretary Richard A. Butler, heading the government in Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's absence, announced the investigation in the House of Commons.

ON LAOS

Russia Consults Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indian diplomatic sources said today the Soviet Union is consulting Communist China on the question of a cease-fire in Laos.

These sources indicated the prospects are about even for a satisfactory political settlement to be reached between the West and the Communist bloc over the neutralization of Laos.

Allied diplomats who attended briefings at the state department reported that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko promised President Kennedy on Monday he would relay the results of his talks promptly to Moscow and expected an answer within a few days.

U.S. officials were said to consider the "few days" could mean as long as a week and conceivably even two weeks.

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan said Tuesday night he has received a message giving rise to hope that Russia will regard Britain's peace proposal for Laos as a good basis for solving the crisis.

Nevertheless these allied diplomats considered the resolution adopted by the Southeast Asia Treaty council of ministers at Bangkok carried enough teeth to be effective in the event the Soviet Union stalled indefinitely.

FIGHTING SLOWS

It was also reported here that while hostilities are still underway in Laos, the fighting is not on as intense a scale as in recent weeks.

Soviet consultations with the Chinese Communists were reported to be taking place in Peking rather than at the Warsaw Pact meeting in Moscow.

U.S. officials were reported to be viewing the Laotian crisis in "an atmosphere of guarded optimism" after a state department briefing of SEATO diplomats Tuesday on President Kennedy's meeting with Gromyko and British Prime Minister Macmillan.

Space Patrol Proposed To Check Nuclear Tests

From Times News Services

GENEVA — The United States today asked the Soviet Union to join in launching of a space patrol of satellites to prevent secret nuclear testing high above the earth or behind the moon.

The program would be part of a treaty banning atomic and hydrogen weapon tests. It would involve launching highly instrumented satellites and building up ground control systems.

U.S. delegate Arthur H. Dean outlined the proposal to the three-power nuclear conference. He was supported by British Minister of State David Ormsby-Gore.

Russian scientists have agreed with Western experts that it would be possible thus to police outer space. But the Soviet delegation has held back from committing itself.

SNEAKS POSSIBLE

Dean said there are scientific indications that it would be possible to conduct sneak nuclear weapon tests behind the sun or the moon.

One problem which has stumped the scientists thus [illegible] mine the difference between a nuclear blast conducted in outer space and some cosmic storm which produces a similar kind of reading on detection instruments.

A false alarm would be dangerous once a test suspension was reached.

Dean said the satellites to check on nuclear blasts could be orbited around the earth at altitudes of 300 to 60,000 miles. Full coverage of outer space could be obtained by putting four satellites in orbit around the sun.

The over-all plan would include [illegible] "near-earth system" — so called because they would orbit only at altitudes of 300 to 500 miles; five or six satellites in a "far earth" system about 37,000 miles above the earth, and four solar satellites travelling in the earth's orbit around the sun.

Stunning Defeat For Verwoerd

PRETORIA (AP)—A three-judge tribunal today acquitted 28 persons charged with plotting violent overthrow of the South African government to establish a Communist regime.

The unanimous verdict brought to an end the longest and costliest trial in the country's history, lasting nearly four years and costing many thousands of pounds. It was a stunning defeat for Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white supremacy government.

The widely heralded "treason trial" resulted from the arrest of 156 persons of all races in country-wide dawn raids December, 1956. A worldwide campaign raised defence funds.

Ninety-two persons were indicted but the government dropped the charges against 64 soon after the trial began.

The defendants claimed they were only seeking an end to the Nationalist government's policy of apartheid — white supremacy and strict racial segregation.

BURST INTO SONG

A crowd in the jammed courtroom burst into the African freedom song, God Bless Africa, when the acquittals were announced. Negro, white and Indian women were among those rushing to congratulate the defendants.

Among the chief targets of the trial were leaders of the African National Congress, outlawed after the race riots that followed the police massacre at Sharpville last March.

The court found there was "no evidence" of Communistic infiltration intp the congress "nor was it proved the congress had become a Communist organization."

The judges said the congress members and the others accused were working to change "the present form of state" but the government failed to show they wanted a Communist state.

The verdict also said there was no proof the congress "intended to achieve this new state by violent means." The judges conceded, however, that the congress action program "contemplated the use of illegal methods and that its application in fact resulted in illegal action during the defiance campaign."

Canada Gives $1,250,000 To Burma

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada has agreed to allocate $1,250,000 of its 1961 Colombo Plan contribution to Burma, it was announced today.

Under an agreement between the two countries, $900,000 will be used to construct a bridge linking Rangoon with the satellite town of Thaketa.

The money, in counterpart funds from Canadian wheat sales to Burma, will be used to obtain materials and equipment from Canada and to hire the necessary Canadian supervisory personnel for the project.

The remaining $350,000 of the allocation is being used for the provision of Canadian wheat, shipment of which already has started.

OTTAWA AIR POLLUTED

Can't Charge Gov't; May Nab Employees

[illegible] may lay air pollution charges against the federal government—through its employees.

Told that a municipality can't lay charges against the federal government, the air pollution committee decided at a meeting to study the possibility of laying the charges [illegible] operating the offending equipment.

"Then the Crown can stand behind him and pay the fine," suggested Alderman Ken Fogary.

The government, the capital's biggest landlord, was a frequent offender of the air pollution bylaw, members complained.

GROOS 'INVADES' OTTAWA

By TOM GOULD
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Liberal candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich is a firm believer in the power of newspaper advertising.

The candidate, David Groos, through his campaign committee, had the following "ad" published in today's editions of an Ottawa newspaper:

"Beautiful, productive, sunny Esquimalt-Saanich, B.C., has everything except a federal member of Parliament.

"We have been without one since October, 1960. Six months is a long time. How about it, Mr. Prime Minister?

"David Groos, Liberal candidate, Esquimalt-Saanich.

"Remember, no taxation without representation."

The advertisement was obviously inspired by the prime minister's failure to fix a date for the byelection despite repeated proddings from the Opposition. Mr. Diefenbaker has consistently refused to set a date for the vote.

ARMORED CAR DRIVER AIDS $100,000 THEFT

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — An armored car driver and two accomplices stole $100,000 today.

While two Mayne Nickless Ltd. employees were delivering money inside the government offices to pay treasury department employees, the driver and two men stole the armored car containing almost $150,000.

The car was found abandoned a short distance away. About $50,000 unaccountably was left inside the vehicle.

Witnesses told investigating officers that three men in their late 20's had unloaded steel containers from the armored car into a station wagon and that they sped away.

'Disturbed' Iraq Slaps on Curfew

CAIRO (UPI)—Cairo newspapers today reported "violent disturbances" in Iraq and a "serious shakeup" in the Jordanian high command.

They said Iraqi military governor Majjen Ahmed Saleh El Abdi has imposed a nightly curfew beginning at 4 p.m. local time with orders to shoot on sight any curfew breakers.

They quoted an alleged order by Abdi as saying the measures were taken to foil "agitation for violence and disturbances in the country."

They said Iraqi Premier Abdel Kassem rushed back to Baghdad from Basra where he had been for three days in his first visit outside the capital since the Iraq revolution.

These space patrolling satellites would be equipped with apparatus which would detect amounts of gamma and X-rays following a nuclear explosion in space.

After a further meeting, at which the United States and Britain plan to summarize their newest concessions, the conferees take a four-day Easter recess.

The Western powers hope that when they return to the conference table next week, the Soviets will have some comment to make. The Russians have been silent throughout the nine days since the Western concessions first were described.

GROOS SPEAKS AT SIDNEY

'Jobs Must Come First'

Advanced social legislation and a "better life" must await the solution of Canada's most immediate problem, the creation of work for 700,000 who are without jobs or pay at the present time.

This was the view expressed by Capt. David Groos, Liberal candidate in the Esquimalt-Saanich byelection, at a meeting in Sidney Hotel Tuesday evening.

"We need a strong, imaginative government to get at the root of our economic problems," he said. "I believe the Liberals will provide such a government."

Capt. Groos conceded that the results of the byelection will neither strengthen nor overthrow the Diefenbaker government.

DAILY REMINDER

"But I suggest that a Liberal MP from this riding would be a living, breathing, daily reminder to the government that 700,000 Canadians just plain don't like being without jobs," he said.

Capt. Groos said part of the blame for the present recession can be laid to the "facts of economic life—the cycle of boom and bust which stretches backward into history.

"But," he added, "with the economic and fiscal machinery available to government, it needn't stretch forward into posterity.

GOV'T REFUSAL

"That's one of the responsibilities of the federal government—a responsibility it has refused to accept in full."

One area of federal responsibility is in the field of foreign trade, he said, and urged the establishment of an economic advisory board with a planning staff to make plans for the recovery and expansion of both domestic and international trade.

"The government should be in constant consultation with labor and management in an effort to decrease the unit cost of goods offered for sale abroad," he said.
